Military Rites Slated Today For Ty Power

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Stars, near-stars and just plain fans by the hundreds pay final respects today to Tyrone Power at a military funeral.

Two hundred elite among the mourners—his friends and fellow screen celebrities, invited by his widow—will crowd a chapel in Hollywood Memorial Park Cemetery at noon.

A thousand others on folding chairs on the lawn outside will hear the rites over loudspeakers.

Cmdr. Thomas M. Gibson, USNR, Presbyterian minister, will officiate. Cesar Romero will read the eulogy. The flag-draped mahogany casket will remain closed.

Then a Medal of Honor winner and five other Marine officers, three of them World War II acquaintances of Power's, will carry the casket to a grave near a lake opposite the cemetery's mausoleum.

Powe, 44, died in Madrid, Spain last Saturday after a heart attack on a movie set.

The traditional firing squad and bugler were omitted at the request of the widow, Deborah Ann, 26, the actor's third wife. "She doesn't feel that Tyrone was a military man," a friend explained.

Earlier, tentative plans for entombment in the mausoleum, near the body of silent screen lover Rudolph Valentino were dropped.

Actress Linda Christian, Powe's second wife, announced in advance she would not attend the funeral. She and their daughters, Romina, 8, and Taryn, 6, planned to go to a mass for Power at a Catholic church.

Searchers Anxious About Finding Boy Scouts in Blizzard

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The search for three Boy Scouts missing since Saturday in the snowy Santa Rita Mountains may end today.

"I don't see how the boys could possibly be alive in this freezing weather," Sheriff James W. Clark said. "If we don't find them in the next two days, there's not much chance (of finding them) until spring."

He said the organized search would end today unless new leads were found.

Missing are Mike Early, 16, David Greenberg, 12, and Michael La Noue, 13, all of Tucson Troop 70. They undertook a mountain-climbing expedition — against the advice of their scoutmaster — with three other scouts. The others turned back after a driving snowstorm hit the mountains Saturday afternoon.

School Building Bill To Be Revived

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressman who had no luck with school construction legislation last session said today its prospects are bright in the new Congress.

"I feel confident such a bill will be introduced," Rep. Frank Thompson (D-N.J.) told a reporter. "I feel the chances for its passage are better than ever before."

Thompson sponsored a bill last session to authorize 1½ billion dollars in federal aid to school construction over a five-year period. A tie vote kept it bottled up in the House Education Committee.

In 1957 the House, on a 208-203 vote, killed a bill which also would have authorized 1½ billion in aid. School segregation and states' rights were issues in the fight.

Episode Divides Singer, Husband

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Helen O'Connell says she and her husband, novelist Thomas T. Chamales, have separated since a knife episode that put him in jail.

Chamales was booked Monday night on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon.

Police said they were summoned to the vocalist's Brentwood home by her daughter of a previous marriage, Jacqueline Smith, 14. The girl told them Chamales had threatened his wife with an 8-inch kitchen knife.

"I wasn't threatening anyone with a knife," police quoted him. "When my wife and I argue, everything is normal until Jackie enters into it. Then things get out of hand."

Ike Says U. S. Stays in Berlin

Russian Moves Meets Stiff Opposition

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) President Eisenhower's headquarters today asserted the United States' "firm intentions" to maintain four-power occupation of Berlin in the face of Russia's move to drive out the Western Allies.

At the President's vacation retreat, press secretary James C. Hagerty stated the U.S. determination after Eisenhower had received latest reports on the Berlin situation from Washington.

"Our firm intentions in West Berlin remain unchanged," Hagerty told a news conference.

He was referring to the Berlin sector occupied by the U.S., Britain and France.

Russia, which also has occupation forces in Berlin, has moved to turn over the city of Communist East Germany and to put air and land transportation routes under control of that Red government.

The President's announcement came soon after authoritative sources in Berlin reported that East Germany had signed an agreement assuring West German civilian traffic freedom of movement in and out of West Berlin.

The reported agreement, at the height of a new crisis over the isolated old German capital has no effect, however, on the explosive question of control of Western Allies supply lines to the divided city.

Rather, it appeared to be an assurance to the 2,200,000 West Berliners that they will not be affected when and if the Soviet Union pulls out of the four-power occupation agreement and turns control of Allied supply lines over to Communist East Germany.

In the 1948-49 blockade, the Soviet Union not only stopped military traffic but civilian as well. This created the need for the airlift.

Under present circumstances, an airlift would be designed to support only the 10,000 Allied fighting men plus Western civilian officials and their families.

A West Berlin official said the agreement "is a positive sign of relief of tension."

Springfield Pupils Vote To Boycott All Area Movies

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Students at Catholic Central High School here voted today in a special assembly to boycott all commercial movies in Springfield and surrounding Clark County until the quality of pictures is improved.

The students, in a resolution, said the current crop of movies are "disgusting, immoral and have a degrading effect," especially on the younger set.

They appealed to other persons in the county to join in the boycott.

Mike Chakeres, who operates at least three theaters and two drive-in movies in the Springfield area, commented: "They will have to contact Hollywood since that's where the movies come from."

A run of horror movies have been playing in local theaters lately.

The school has an enrollment of some 600 students. Voting in the special assembly appeared to be unanimous.

Youth, 17, Admits Being Hit-Skipper

CINCINNATI (AP)—John Pegg, 17, of nearby Norwood, told police today he was the driver of an automobile which killed Mrs. Annette Zimmerman, 37, and her son, Robert, 8, Wednesday night.

Sgt. Charles Block of the Traffic Bureau and Patrolman Charles Handorf said Pegg admitted being the hit-run driver after his father, Virgil Pegg, had called police to his home. The father acted after he saw the damaged family car.

Lady, 107, Years Old, Uses 'Nip' In Coffee

PATERSON, N. J. (AP) — Mrs. Gelsomina Del Vecchio is 107 years old today and was asked how she did it.

She replied that she puts a little nip in her daily coffee, eats and drinks anything she wants, and worries about nothing.

Torch Slayer's Hearing Delayed

MRS. EDYTHE KLUMPP (center), a 40-year-old school teacher, told Cincinnati police she killed Mrs. Louise Bergen, 32 (right), the estranged wife of her alleged lover, William Bergen (left) and then set fire to the body. She said she killed Mrs. Bergen as the two wrestled for a gun in a car.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Arraignment of Mrs. Edythe Klumpp, 40, on a charge of murdering her lover's estranged wife, was continued in Police Court today until Nov. 26. Her attorney said he wanted to know "if we are in the right courtroom."

William F. Hopkins, defense counsel, said his doubt is caused by the fact that Mrs. Klumpp is charged with first-degree murder in two places—in Clinton County and in Cincinnati (Hamilton County).

It was in Clinton County that the body of Mrs. Martha Louise Bergen, 32, was found Nov. 1. The State Highway Patrol filed the murder charge in that county.

After Hopkins said he also wanted to know the cause of death—another point not determined by a pathologist—the continuance was asked by Detective Wilbert Stagenhorst. Stagenhorst filed the murder charge here Thursday.

Mrs. Bergen's body had been burned. She was also shot and beaten.

Mrs. Klumpp was tight-lipped and tense as she stood before Police Court Judge Clarence Denning. She was dressed in a long-sleeved white blouse and a brown felt skirt. She looked haggard, quite the reverse from the smiling blonde woman she was when first arrested.

Mrs. Bergen's body was found along the shore of Lake Cowan in Clinton County. Mrs. Klumpp is accused of killing Mrs. Bergen following an argument over Mrs. Bergen's husband, William.

The case remained a mystery until Tuesday when Detective Chief Henry Sandman announced Mrs. Klumpp had admitted the slaying but said it occurred as she and Mrs. Bergen struggled over a gun. Sandman said Mrs. Klumpp declared she kept Mrs. Bergen's body in the luggage compartment of her automobile until the next day and then took it to Lake Cowan and burned it.

She said she had met Mrs. Bergen on the evening of Oct. 30 to ask her to divorce her husband.

Thursday, Mrs. Klumpp objected to the filing of the murder charge.

Poultry Dealer Handed Jail Term

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A Danville, Ohio, poultry farmer who supplies the Kroger supermarket chain with most of its turkeys has been sentenced to a year and a day in prison on a tax evasion conviction.

Federal Judge Mel Underwood imposed the sentence Thursday on Dwight E. Lifer, who had pleaded guilty to evading some $22,000 in federal income taxes in 1952. Lifer also drew a $5,000 fine.

The Internal Revenue Service said Lifer claimed his 1942 income was $6,012 and that he paid an income tax of $713. The government said Lifer's 1952 income was $52,783 and that he should have paid an income tax of $22,528.

Davie, Age 5, Is Back in Marines

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Davie Ragland is back in the Marines. How much of a tour the 5-year-old will have is not known. His mother has had enough of life in the corps.

Davie's first hitch started in January before he underwent urethral surgery. He wanted to go into the serious operation in full dress Marine Corps blues.

His mother, Mrs. Maurice Ragland, wrote the Marine base at Cherry Point, N.C. The Marines came through with a tailor-made set of pint-sized blues that fit like a glove.

Davie, now a master sergeant, came home from his successful operation with new ideas.

A bugle was purchased. White gloves followed. Davie learned taps and reveille.

"We'd all wake up to Davie playing reveille. We went to bed with Davie playing taps. We ate to the chow call. I might as well have been living at a Marine base," Mrs. Ragland said.

"I thought it was cute for a while, I scolded Davie one day," she said. "He listened quietly. When I finished he looked at me and said—'At ease.'"

That ended the sergeant's days in the Marines. The bugle disap-

Mass Slayer's Girl Companion Found Guilty

Caril Ann Fugate Breaks into Sobs At Jury's Verdict

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) A jury today found Caril Ann Fugate guilty of first degree murder for helping Charles Starkweather on a killing rampage last January.

Life imprisonment was prescribed.

Starkweather, 19, was convicted on identical charges last May and drew a death sentence, still to be executed.

The jury verdict against Starkweather's 15-year-old ex-sweetheart was delivered at 11:10 a.m. to climax a trial that began nearly four weeks ago.

Caril Ann broke into sobs when the verdict was announced. She buried her face against the shoulder of Defense Lawyer Merrill Reller, seated beside her and crying racked her 91-pound 5 foot one inch frame. Her sobbing could be heard throughout the courtroom.

John McArthur, chief defense attorney, said, "My natural reaction is to appeal to the State Supreme Court. I've got to catch my breath first."

Whether Caril serves a full life term or not will be up to the Nebraska State Board of Pardons and Paroles, which could commute her sentence to a fixed number of years or release her outright at any time it might choose.

A trim and pretty brunette, Caril was charged with aiding and abetting Starkweather in one of 11 killings attributed to him.

By its verdict, the jury of seven men and five women tabbed Caril a helpful companion to Starkweather on a killing spree that shocked the nation.

Rejected was Caril's plea she was forced into her role by fears for her own life and threats of harm to her family.

She was convicted of first degree murder on the second count, which is murder in the perpetration of a robbery.

It was Starkweather himself who pointed the most accusing finger at the girl.

Hauled into court from his death cell at the Nebraska Penitentiary, the bandy-legged redhead described Caril as his willing and aggressive helpmate in the slayings.

He labeled as a "bunch of hogwash" his earlier statements to the contrary, and insisted he and Caril made up the story about her role as hostage before ever setting out on the killing flight.

Starkweather also buried the last remains of the teen-age romance. Asked if he cares whether Caril

'Amos' Named U. S. Envoy

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Andy," explain this to me: I got this letter from the White House—

"Now, wait a minute, Amos. You been dreaming again. Ain't that right Kingfish?"

"Yeah. Sure sounds that way. Amos, you got as much chance of gettin' a letter from the White House as you is to become Kingfish of the Mystic Knights of the Sea."

Amos was right, though. The White House itself made the announcement Thursday.

Freeman F. Gosden, the original Amos 'n' Andy, has just been appointed a special U.S. ambassador.

President Eisenhower named Gosden as one of a 10-man delegation to represent him at the Nov. 28-Dec. 4 inauguration of Don Adolfo Lopez Mateos as President of Mexico.

Gosden, a one-time tobacco salesman from Richmond, Va., has played golf with Eisenhower at Denver. The White House described him as a long time personal friend of the President.

The 59-year-old Gosden — or rather, the Amos he long portrayed — has been a household word to radio and many TV fans almost since the crystal set days.

Amos is a wisful, trusting soul — often the victim of the boastful Andy — originated by Charles J. Correll — and the big-dealing Kingfish. They are just a few of the colorful characters who populate the blackface comedy-variety series.

The original Gosden-Correll team, both white, still plays Amos 'n' Andy on radio. A Negro cast fills the parts on a televised series.

Soviet Seen Lofting First A-Power Plane

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia is given an even chance of beating the United States into the sky with an atomic powered airplane — possibly before the end of the year.

However, the director of the Pentagon's program for development of nuclear powered aircraft says this country is on the threshold of success in building an atomic plane.

Air Force Maj. Gen. Donald J. Keirn says if the Russians do win the race, the airplane they use might not be "too sophisticated" — that is, relatively crude.

Keirn expressed these views Thursday in talks to reporters and an ordnance group meeting.

He indicated that by using an atomic power plant in a conventional plane, the Russians might manage a nuclear flight before the end of the year or early next year.

But he made it clear the U.S. Air Force wants an airplane specifically designed for atomic power and capable of virtually unlimited range at supersonic speed.

Keirn added that the Air Force "will soon be ready to embark" on a flight testing program of an atomic plane.

Virginia OKs Equal Status For U. S. Flag

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. says the U.S. flag will fly atop state-owned buildings only on an equal basis with the Virginia flag.

This means, he added Thursday the U.S. flag will not be displayed over the state flag on the same halyard. He said, however, his policy statement should not be construed as derogatory to the federal government or the national flag.

"I not only respect, I worship the flag of my country," the governor said at a news conference. He said it did not seem appropriate for the U.S. flag to be displayed in a position of dominance on a state building.

The question arose because of the long absence of the national flag from the state Capitol flag staff. The governor said, the U.S. flag "will go back" as soon as another staff is erected.

Almond said the policy has no connection with the controversy over the authority and powers of the states and the federal government.

Solon Says Dems To Back Up Ike

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) declared that if the Eisenhower administration chooses to use armed force to break a second blockade in Berlin, the action would receive support from him and other Democrats in Congress.

The outspoken legislator replied to questions by newsmen at a dinner Thursday night.

He said this country has a choice of two alternatives in the Berlin crisis — break a second blockade "with an armored column or use the airlift as was done in the first blockade."

"Both would be supported by Democrats," he said.

Cincinnati Pacifist Plans To Again Defy Federal Court

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Rev. Maurice McCrackin, local pacifist, intends to continue his defiance of the U.S. District Court. He contends his struggle is a moral, not a legal one.

The 52-year-old minister said Thursday night he will not appear in U.S. District Court Monday to plead to an indictment on a charge of failure to answer an Internal Revenue Service summons on his income tax troubles.

He issued his statement several hours after being released from county jail where he had been held since Friday for psychiatric examination. Three psychiatrists earlier had declared him to be mentally competent.

The pacifist minister's difficulties arose over his long-time refusal to pay all of his income taxes because part of the money went for military equipment.

Twice he has had to be carried into court bodily—once for a hearing before a U.S. commissioner and the second time last Friday when he was to have been arraigned before U.S. District Judge John H. Druffel of the indictment.

On both occasions he refused to stand or make any kind of a plea. He also has refused to make any arrangements for an attorney.

After the incident last Friday Judge Druffel ordered the psychiatric examination.

When the minister was released from jail Thursday he was handed a summons to appear Monday before Judge Druffel.

The Rev. McCrackin's later statement said:

"I believe it is an evil what the courts are doing in helping to collect taxes for war and in trying to force the conscience of those who are unwilling to give financial aid to this great sin. I cannot cooperate with what I believe evil and in this particular case I cannot therefore cooperate with the court. Therefore, I feel I cannot respond to the summons Monday."

Court observers said if McCrackin fails to show up on Monday he probably will lay himself open to a contempt of court citation.

During his stay in jail the Rev. McCrackin also declined to cooperate with two court-appointed attorneys. The attorneys, however, filed a motion to dismiss the indictment.

McCrackin's comment on that was:

"Their evident concern is appreciated but I believe this is a moral, not a legal, struggle."

Utilities Offer New A-Plant

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Philadelphia Electric Co. and more than 50 other private utilities today offered to build a 24½-million-dollar nuclear power plant near Philadelphia.

The aim is to provide cheaper electric power.

The project, a pioneer gas-cooled type of reactor, was submitted to the Atomic Energy Commission just before expiration of a 60-day deadline fixed by Congress for private industry to act.

If no proposal had been received today, AEC was under congressional orders to build and operate a gas-cooled power plant at public expense.

The proposed prototype plant would be completed in 1962 or early 1963, AEC was told. It would be owned by Philadelphia Electric and would feed 30,000 kilowatts of power into the firm's system initially. Later it would provide 40,000 kilowatts.

Though the Philadelphia company was the official sponsor, it was joined in the project by a newly organized, nonprofit group of utility companies from coast to coast. This group calls itself the High Temperature Reactor Development Associates, Inc., a Delaware corporation.

The site is to be announced later. The project is contingent on AEC's agreeing to put up an additional 14½ million for further research and development.

If AEC accepts today's proposal, the industry will have headed off what it considers a major threat—a further incursion by the federal government into public power, via the nuclear route.

The AEC research and development contract would go to the General Atomic Division of General Dynamics Corp., which conceived the new design and put two years of experimental work into it at its own expense.

The Bechtel Corp., San Francisco, would be the engineer-builder, and Westinghouse Electric Corp. would provide the generating equipment.

Mass Slayer's Girl Companion Found Guilty

Caril Ann Fugate Breaks into Sobs At Jury's Verdict

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) A jury today found Caril Ann Fugate guilty of first degree murder for helping Charles Starkweather on a killing rampage last January.

Life imprisonment was prescribed.

Starkweather, 19, was convicted on identical charges last May and drew a death sentence, still to be executed.

The jury verdict against Starkweather's 15-year-old ex-sweetheart was delivered at 11:10 a.m. to climax a trial that began nearly four weeks ago.

Caril Ann broke into sobs when the verdict was announced. She buried her face against the shoulder of Defense Lawyer Merrill Reller, seated beside her and crying raked her 91-pound 5 foot one inch frame. Her sobbing could be heard throughout the courtroom.

John McArthur, chief defense attorney, said, "My natural reaction is to appeal to the State Supreme Court. I've got to catch my breath first."

Whether Caril serves a full life term or not will be up to the Nebraska State Board of Pardons and Paroles, which could commute her sentence to a fixed number of years or release her outright at any time it might choose.

A trim and pretty brunette, Caril was charged with aiding and abetting Starkweather in one of 11 killings attributed to him.

By its verdict, the jury of seven men and five women tabbed Caril a helpful companion to Starkweather on a killing spree that shocked the nation.

Rejected was Caril's plea she was forced into her role by fears for her own life and threats of harm to her family.

She was convicted of first degree on the second count, which is murder in the perpetration of a robbery.

It was Starkweather himself who pointed the most accusing finger at the girl.

Hauled into court from his death cell at the Nebraska Penitentiary, the bandy-legged redhead described Caril as his willing and aggressive helpmate in the slayings.

He labeled as a "bunch of hogwash" his earlier statements to the contrary, and insisted he and Caril made up the story about her role as hostage before ever settling out on the killing flight.

Starkweather also buried the last remains of the teen-age romance. Asked if he cares whether Caril

Fire Truck Purchase Is Postponed

The purchase of a new fire truck for Washington C. H. has been postponed at least until 1959, City Manager David Foell said Friday.

City Council members and the city manager, decided the cost would be prohibitive at this time during a discussion session.

The city had taken bids for the truck and received offers from five companies. Although it wasn't decided which one would be accepted if the city were to buy the truck, the costs averaged out to about $27,000 each, Foell said.

City administrators had discussed the problem upon recommendation of the Ohio Inspection Bureau, which fixes insurance rates.

Poultry Dealer Handed Jail Term

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A Danville, Ohio, poultry farmer who supplies the Kroger supermarket chain with most of its turkeys has been sentenced to a year and a day in prison on a tax evasion conviction.

Federal Judge Mell Underwood imposed the sentence Thursday on Dwight E. Lifer, who had pleaded guilty to evading some $22,000 in federal income taxes in 1952. Lifer also drew a $5,000 fine.

The Internal Revenue Service said Lifer claimed his 1942 income was $6,012 and that he paid an income tax of $713. The government said Lifer's 1952 income was $52,783 and that he should have paid an income tax of $22,528.

Davie, Age 5, Is Back in Marines

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Davie Ragland is back in the Marines. How much of a tour the 5-year-old will have is not known. His mother has had enough of life in the corps.

Davie's first hitch started in January before he underwent urethral surgery. He wanted to go into the serious operation in full dress Marine Corps blues.

His mother, Mrs. Maurice Ragland, wrote the Marine base at Cherry Point, N.C. The Marines came through with a tailor-made set of pint-sized blues that fit like a glove.

Davie, now a master sergeant, came home from his successful operation with new ideas.

A bugle was purchased. White gloves followed. Davie learned taps and reveille.

"We'd all wake up to Davie playing reveille. We went to bed with Davie playing taps. We ate to the chow call. I might as well have been living at a Marine base," Mrs. Ragland said.

"I thought it was cute for a while, I scolded Davie one day," she said. "He listened quietly. When I finished he looked at me and said—'At ease.'"

That ended the sergeant's days in the Marines. The bugle disappeared.

Narrow Bridge Is Falling Down

THE NARROW New Holland bridge on Route 22 came tumbling down Thursday as contractors took the first big step in replacing it with a modern 24-foot wide structure. The Union Bridge Co., Mt. Liberty, started work on the bridge this week. Completion date has been tentatively set for late spring but construction in the area won't be completed until August because of a new stretch of road being laid north of the bridge. A temporary two-lane bridge, shown in the right side of the picture, has been constructed as a detour over the North Fork of Paint Creek.

'Amos' Named U. S. Envoy

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Andy," explain this to me: I got this letter from the White House—"Now, wait a minute, Amos. You been dreaming, again. Ain't that right Kingfish?"

"Yeah. Sure sounds that way. Amos, you got as much chance of gettin' a letter from the White House as you is to become Kingfish of the Mystic Knights of the Sea."

Amos was right, though. The White House itself made the announcement Thursday.

Freeman F. Gosden, the original Amos of 'n' Andy, has just been appointed a special U.S. ambassador.

President Eisenhower named Gosden as one of a 10-man delegation to represent him at the Nov. 28-Dec. 4 inauguration of Don Adolfo Lopez Mateos as President of Mexico.

Gosden, a one-time tobacco salesman from Richmond, Va., has played golf with Eisenhower at Denver. The White House described him as a long time personal friend of the President.

The 59-year-old Gosden—or rather, the Amos he long portrayed—has been a household word to radio and many TV fans almost since the crystal set days.

Amos is a winsome, trusting soul—often the victim of the boastful Andy—originated by Charles J. Correll—and the big-dealing Kingfish. They are just a few of the colorful characters who populate the blackface comedy-variety series.

The original Gosden-Correll team, both white, still plays Amos 'n' Andy on radio. A Negro cast fills the parts on a televised series.

Soviet Seen Lofting First A-Power Plane

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia is given an even chance of beating the United States into the sky with an atomic powered airplane—possibly before the end of the year.

However, the director of the Pentagon's program for development of nuclear powered aircraft says this country is on the threshold of success in building an atomic plane.

Air Force Maj. Gen. Donald J. Keirn says if the Russians do win the race, the airplane they use might not be "too sophisticated"—that is, relatively crude.

Keirn expressed these views Thursday in talks to reporters and an ordnance group meeting.

He indicated that by using an atomic power plant in a conventional plane, the Russians might manage a nuclear flight before the end of the year or early next year.

But he made it clear the U.S. Air Force wants an airplane specifically designed for atomic power and capable of virtually unlimited range at supersonic speed.

Keirn added that the Air Force "will soon be ready to embark" on a flight testing program of an atomic plane.

Virginia OKs Equal Status For U. S. Flag

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. says the U.S. flag will fly atop state-owned buildings only on an equal basis with the Virginia flag.

This means, he added Thursday the U.S. flag will not be displayed over the state flag on the same halyard. He said, however, his policy statement should not be construed as derogatory to the federal government or the national flag.

"I not only respect, I worship the flag of my country," the governor said at a news conference. He said it did not seem appropriate for the U.S. flag to be displayed in a position of dominance on a state building.

The question arose because of the long absence of the national flag from the state Capitol flag staff. The governor said, the U.S. flag "will go back" as soon as another staff is erected.

Almond said the policy has no connection with the controversy over the authority and powers of the states and the federal government.

Solon Says Dems To Back Up Ike

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) declared that if the Eisenhower administration chooses to use armed force to break a second blockade in Berlin, the action would receive support from him and other Democrats in Congress.

The outspoken legislator replied to questions by newsmen at a dinner Thursday night.

He said this country has a choice of two alternatives in the Berlin crisis — break a second blockade "with an armored column or use the airlift as was done in the first blockade."

"Both would be supported by Democrats," he said.

Cincinnati Pacifist Plans To Again Defy Federal Court

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Rev. Maurice McCrackin, local pacifist, intends to continue his defiance of the U.S. District Court. He contends his struggle is a moral, not a legal one.

The 52-year-old minister said Thursday night he will not appear in U.S. District Court Monday to plead to an indictment on a charge of failure to answer an Internal Revenue Service summons on his income tax troubles.

He issued his statement several hours after being released from county jail where he had been held since Friday for psychiatric examination. Three psychiatrists earlier had declared him to be mentally competent.

The pacifist minister's difficulties arose over his long-time refusal to pay all of his income taxes because part of the money went for military equipment.

Twice he has had to be carried into court bodily—once for a hearing before a U.S. commissioner and the second time last Friday when he was to have been arraigned before U.S. District Judge John H. Druffel of the indictment.

On both occasions he refused to stand or make any kind of a plea. He also has refused to make any arrangements for an attorney.

Utilities Offer New A-Plant

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Philadelphia Electric Co. and more than 50 other private utilities today offered to build a 24½-million-dollar nuclear power plant near Philadelphia.

The aim is to provide cheaper electric power.

The project, a pioneer gas-cooled type of reactor, was submitted to the Atomic Energy Commission just before expiration of a 60-day deadline fixed by Congress for private industry to act.

If no proposal had been received today, AEC was under congressional orders to build and operate a gas-cooled power plant at public expense.

The proposed prototype plant would be completed in 1962 or early 1963, AEC was told. It would be owned by Philadelphia Electric and would feed 30,000 kilowatts of power into the firm's system initially. Later it would provide 40,000 kilowatts.

Though the Philadelphia company was the official sponsor, it was joined in the project by a newly organized, nonprofit group of utility companies from coast to coast. This group calls itself the High Temperature Reactor Development Associates, Inc., a Delaware corporation.

The site is to be announced later. The project is contingent on AEC's agreeing to put up an additional 14½ million for further research and development.

If AEC accepts today's proposal, the industry will have headed off what it considers a major threat—a further incursion by the federal government into public power, via the nuclear route.

The AEC research and development contract would go to the General Atomic Division of General Dynamics Corp., which conceived the new design and put two years of experimental

Lutheran Group Makes Progress In Church Plans

Minister Expected
Here In January
To Form Mission

If hopes of Lutherans in this community materialize, a minister of the church will come here early next January to lay the groundwork for the establishment of a Lutheran Church in Washington C. H.

This was brought out following a meeting of 21 Lutherans in the Farm Bureau auditorium this week. It was the second meeting aimed at organizing a mission and eventually a church.

An encouraging note at the last meeting was the number of Lutherans there who were not at the first meeting, spokesmen said. One of them estimated "conservatively" that there are around 50 members of the church in the city and county.

It was pointed out that, since the Lutheran Church has a German foundation, most of its members here come from other communities with German backgrounds.

ALREADY, a temporary organization has been set up for the formation of a mission. Mrs. Roger Miller, 708 Oak Dr., is the president; Richard Kilian, 217 E. Elm St., vice president; William Kinsley, 323 Rawlings St., secretary, and Mrs. Kinsley, treasurer.

When a minister of the church comes here, as expected in January, he will take up residence for at least a year, while he carries on what was described as missionary work—that is, he will try to get in touch with Lutherans and anyone interested in the Lutheran church and weld them together into a formal church organization.

Meanwhile, the Lutherans who have been brought together in the loosely knit temporary organization are laying plans for the coming of the minister.

Kinsley and William Mason were delegated at the last meeting to try to locate a building, or a room, in which meetings can be held.

THE NEXT meeting is tentatively scheduled for the first week in January. Mrs. Miller explained that the group hopes to develop more concrete plans for the formation of church before the minister arrives later in the month.

The Rev. Donis D. Patterson, rector of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, opened the last meeting with a prayer and then cited some of the problems that are bound to confront any group in forming a new church.

Part of his talk stressed the true meaning of fellowship, which, he said, is important, not only within the church membership, but also with members of other churches. St. Andrew's Church here was a mission for many years and raised to church status only a relatively few years ago, shortly before the new church building was erected on the Greenfield Rd. at the southern edge of the city.

Mrs. Miller said that anyone interested in helping organize the Lutherans here may get in touch with any of the temporary officers.

Gun Moll, 15, Sobs

lives or dies. Starkweather said: "It don't make no difference to me."

Trial testimony covered what prosecutors referred to as the entire series of "atrocious, shocking events."

Last Jan. 21, Starkweather killed Carl's mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Bartlett, and Carl's half-sister, Betty Jean Bartlett, 2, at the Bartlett home in Lincoln.

Whether Carl was present at the time became a disputed issue. Starkweather said she was a witness and casually watched television while he disposed of the bodies. Carl said she came home from school to find her parents gone and Starkweather pointing a gun in her face.

Carl said Starkweather gave her a story that family members were being held prisoner at some other Lincoln home and harm would come to them if Carl didn't obey Starkweather's commands.

Not until she was taken into custody more than a week later did she learn that her parents already had been killed, she said.

This became a key issue in the case, the state contending Carl knew all along her family had been slain.

The jury began considering evidence Thursday morning that the trim little brunette aided and abetted condemned killer Charles Starkweather in one of 11 slayings he has admitted.

Nearly 12 hours later the seven men and five women quit for the night.

Carl and her attorneys have contended she was Starkweather's hostage, a fear-stricken girl without opportunity to escape a mad-dog killer.

Deaths, Funerals

J. Martin Cox

J. Martin Cox, 71, died at 8:20 p. m. Thursday in Memorial Hospital where he had been a patient for three weeks. He had been in failing health for six months.

A native and lifelong resident of Washington C. H., he had been the hardware department manager of the W. P. Noble Implement Co. in Bloomington for about the last two years.

As a young man in the horse and buggy days, he was associated with his father, George Cox, in the livery business with a stable on S. Fayette St. When the automobile came common use, the livery stable was closed and the building converted into a garage.

From those early days, he carried through life a love of fine horses. He judged many horse shows and was one of the keystones of those held at the Night Fair here for several years. He also showed horses in this area before that time. Because of his interest in harness horses, he was prominent for many years as assistant to the speed committee in carrying out the Fair race programs.

He was a member of Grace Methodist Church, and active in its affairs as long as his health permitted, and a member of the Masonic Lodge.

He is survived by his wife, Mabel; a daughter, Mrs. Rosemary Darlington of West Jefferson; a son, George (Bud) Cox of Urbana and five grandchildren.

Services will be held at 10 a. m. Monday in the Gerstner Funeral Home by the Rev. L. J. Poe, pastor of Grace Church. Burial will be in the Washington Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 7 p. m. Saturday.

Jimmie Hidy

Services for Jimmie Ann Hidy, 3, who died Thursday morning in Children's Hospital, Columbus, will be held 10:30 a. m. Saturday in St. Andrew's Episcopal Church by the Rev. Donis D. Patterson, the pastor.

Little Jimmie, the daughter of Mrs. Shizue Hidy, a Japanese war bride, 134½ Oakland Ave., succumbed to lockjaw, which developed from a small scratch on her leg.

Burial will be in the Washington Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Gerstner Funeral Home any time.

Ralph M. Ater

Graveside services were held Friday afternoon in Brown's Chapel Cemetery, near Clarkburg, for Ralph Madera Ater Jr., son of Madera and Virginia Cochenour Ater, Route 2, who died at birth Friday morning in Memorial Hospital, The Rev. De Loss Smith, pastor of the Clarkburg Methodist Church, officiated, and burial was in charge of the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home here.

Survivors, besides the parents, are two sisters, Linda Sue and Linda Mae, and two brothers, Danny and Robert, all at home; two half-sisters, Mrs. Evelyn Jacobs, New Holland, and Miss Barbara Ater, Circleville; a half brother, Robert Eugene Ater, U. S. Navy.

Compromise Said Little Rock's Need

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Little Rock school problem won't be solved until "those in the middle get a belly full," says Chris E. Finkbeiner, who lost to Gov. Orval E. Faubus in the Arkansas gubernatorial election.

Finkbeiner, a meat packer turned politician, predicted in an interview: "Our Little Rock school situation is going to get a lot worse before it's going to get better. People will be hurt—people will be killed."

"I hate to say it, but there is no shortcut solution because the people will not listen to compromise."

Finkbeiner was here to attend the National Independent Meat Packers Assn. meeting.

Mel Ott's Life Hangs in Balance

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—One-time National League slugging star Mel Ott was in critical condition today following eight-hour surgery and doctors said his chances for survival were "very poor."

The former New York Giants' player-manager, injured in a two-car collision last week, underwent surgery for kidney complications Thursday night. Following the surgery, doctors first said his condition was a shade improved, but gave him little chance today.

The 49-year-old Ott faces possible new surgery, but the hospital (Touro Infirmary) said it cannot be considered immediately because of his condition.

Plumbing Bids Opened

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The L.P.Z. Construction Co. of Bellefontaine Thursday submitted the apparent low bid of $18,966 for new plumbing and room alterations at two cottages for the Ohio Reformatory for Women at Marysville. The state estimate was $27,332.

Probation Said Better for Man Than Prison Rap

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP)—It's cheaper to put a man on probation than it is to put him in prison. And it's an effective method of preventing future crime.

That's the opinion of the 15-member Ohio Committee on Delinquency and Crime. So why, the committee asks, does the state keep pouring thousands of people into its already over-crowded penal institutions?

To support its contention that probations be increased, the committee presents this argument:

1. It costs $1,000 a year to keep an inmate in prison $200 to put him on probation for a year.

2. With more prisoners on probation, there's less space needed to house them. That cuts down on money to build new institutions.

3. A prisoner on probation can help and support his family. If he's in prison, welfare funds frequently are needed to keep the family going.

"Where it has been tried, adequate probation has proven to be considerably more economical and provides equal protection to the community as does incarceration in as many as 75 per cent of the cases," the committee said.

"In its aspects as an effective treatment method, it prevents future crime."

But two recent studies indicate a "shocking lack of adequate and uniform probation services in Ohio," the committee added.

It said Ohio's 88 counties are spending about 3 million dollars a year for juvenile and adult probation services. This compares with 15 million dollars that the state spends annually to care for inmates of penal and correctional institutions.

The latter figure doesn't include about 1½ million currently being spent to build new institutions, the committee said.

With commitments to Ohio prisons increasing yearly, Ohio taxpayers will be faced with spending an additional 60.2 million dollars by 1962, the group asserted.

That's over and above money needed to take care of new buildings and programs for the present inmate population—about 11,500, and expected to jump to 13,000 in two years.

The committee met Thursday at Boys Industrial School here and made several recommendations to improve the state's probation program.

Primarily, the committee said, what's needed is more probation personnel at higher salaries, and state subsidies to help the program along. At present, it explained, the state contributes nothing toward county probation costs.

Machinist Strike Trans World Airline

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Trans World Airlines machinists struck today just as the union announced the airline had made a new proposal.

Pickets were placed at the TWA building at the Municipal Airport here.

Cliff Miller, chairman of District 142 of the International Assn. of Machinists, announced the new proposal as he left a negotiating session with company representatives. He said, "We will take it under advisement."

Meantime, he said, the strike will go on.

Called out on strike were nearly 7,000 machinists.

Ike Ready for Day Of Golf in Georgia

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Vacationing President Eisenhower takes out after par again today at one of America's most testing golf courses.

Relaxing in a kind of old-shoe comfort at the Augusta National Golf Club, the President played 18 holes shortly after arrival from Washington Thursday afternoon.

The weather was just about ideal—brilliant sun with the temperate forecast is for more of the same.

Stassen Set For Campaign Against Nixon

CLEVELAND (AP)—Harold E. Stassen made it clear in an interview here Thursday night that he will go all out to keep Vice President Nixon from getting the Republican presidential nomination in 1960.

He told a reporter he might even try to become a candidate himself if circumstances were such that he could deliver any votes to a Nixon rival. Thus, he explained, he would not "in a real sense" be seeking the nomination for himself.

Stassen repeated in the interview his comments at the White House Nov. 12 when he came from a session with President Eisenhower and proposed four possible GOP presidential candidates for 1960. The four he suggests are Gov.-elect Nelson Rockefeller of New York, Cabot Lodge Jr., Treasury Secretary Robert Anderson and Interior Secretary Fred Seaton.

Looking back to the election earlier this month, Stassen noted that the Republicans fared worst in three states where Nixon campaigned—California, Ohio and Indiana.

"I basically believe our party should be more a party of working people, small businessmen and farmers," Stassen explained. "More in the tradition of Teddy Roosevelt and Abraham Lincoln—more progressive, in other words."

"It's been those convictions which I've held all my life which brought me into opposition with Nixon, and with the people who tried to button up the nomination for him."

Ike Says

over a 110-mile highway-rail link and a network of canals.

Western military traffic uses these same lifelines. However, it is checked through Soviet controls as agreed under postwar four-power agreements.

The United States, France and Britain do not recognize East Germany and refuse to have any dealings with its regime.

Sources said the East-West German agreement also provided for an exchange of West German steel for East German soft coal, mainly for the supply of Berlin.

The West Germans have always felt they hold a trump card with the East Germans in the Berlin dispute because of the interzonal trade issue. East Germany is anxious to continue interzonal trade in order to help fulfill its ambitious economic plans.

Trade talks between East and West Germany were carried on a semi-official basis in Berlin. As before, they were regarded as being of a technical nature, which did not involve Bonn recognition of East Germany.

The agreement on access to Berlin would not interfere, however, with any Communist plan to close the border between East and West Berlin. West Berlin officials freely predicted this will be the next East German move.

By this action the East Germans could cut off free travel without passports between the two sectors of the city to close an escape hatch through which more than a million East Germans have fled to the West.

Stopping this refugee flow appears to be one of the major objectives of Nikita Khrushchev's efforts to drive the Western Allies from Berlin. The Soviet premier demanded Nov. 10 that the United States, Britain and France withdraw their occupation troops.

Andre Smirnov, Soviet ambassador to West Germany, told Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in Bonn Thursday that Moscow had decided to pull out of the four-power occupation under which Berlin operates.

The Allies refuse to abandon West Berlin to the Communists surrounding it.

1 Pct. Sales Tax Hike Is Studied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—What would a one per cent boost in the state sales tax add to the state's revenues?

About 70 million dollars annually, according to a report submitted Thursday to a committee of the Legislative Service Commission. The committee is studying state and local government financing problems.

The report also showed reinstating the penny tax on sales between 9 and 41 cents would produce an additional 10 millions and repeal of use exemptions would add another 36 millions.

Abolition of sales tax stamps would add another 10 millions. The sales tax, biggest single revenue producer for the state, yields about 221 million dollars annually.

Stock Mart Trading Shows Slowing Trend

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market gave ground moderately early this afternoon in slackened trading.

Most losses were narrow, ranging from fractions to about a point. A few were steeper.

Some fairly good gains were scattered throughout the list. Aircrafts, tobaccos and selected issues were higher. Industrials as a whole were definitely on the downside. Steels, mo'tors, chemicals, oils, nonferrous metals and rails declined. Utilities were about even.

The business and economic background remained favorable generally but the market once again seemed in need of a consolidation period, brokers said.

Youngstown Sheet dropped more than two points in a further reaction to a court ban on the proposed merger with Bethlehem Steel. Bethlehem dropped another fraction.

Small minus signs were shown by the big three auto producers as well as American Motors and Mack Trucks. Studebaker-Packard eased.

Losses of around a point were taken by Radio Corp., Royal Dutch, Goodrich, Goodyear and Southern Pacific.

U.S. Government bonds rose slightly.

Delphos Woman Mayor Ousts Cop Chieftain Again

VAN WERT, Ohio (AP)—The woman mayor of nearby Delphos has suspended the community's newspaper-publishing police chief again.

In a notice effective Dec. 1, Mayor Margaret Miller cited charges of inefficiency and incompetence, the same grounds on which she tried to oust the chief early in September.

Chief Norbert Grewe indicated today he will appeal to the Civil Service Commission as he did in September.

In the earlier round, the commission overruled the suspension and Grewe was restored to duty with back pay.

Grewe, with 17 years of service on the police department, is publisher and general manager of the town's daily newspaper, the Delphos Herald.

Radar To Replace Ground Observers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Radar soon will replace the 280,000 civilian volunteers who spent many hours in the past nine years watching for enemy planes in American skies.

The Air Force announced Thursday the Ground Observer Corps will disband Jan. 31. The reason: The human eye cannot keep up with requirements of the jet and missile age.

Several radar networks—across the arctic, Canada and the U.S. northern border, and along the Atlantic and Pacific coasts—now protect the United States. The Air Force believes these networks would spot jets and missiles long before they flew over the GOC's 16,000 observation posts.

Lutheran Group Makes Progress In Church Plans

Minister Expected
Here In January
To Form Mission

If hopes of Lutherans in this community materialize, a minister of the church will come here early next January to lay the groundwork for the establishment of a Lutheran Church in Washington C. H.

This was brought out following a meeting of 21 Lutherans in the Farm Bureau auditorium this week. It was the second meeting aimed at organizing a mission and eventually a church.

An encouraging note at the last meeting was the number of Lutherans there who were not at the first meeting, spokesmen said. One of them estimated "conservatively" that there are around 50 members of the church in the city and county.

It was pointed out that, since the Lutheran Church has a German foundation, most of its members here come from other communities with German backgrounds.

ALREADY, a temporary organization has been set up for the formation of a mission. Mrs. Roger Miller, 708 Oak Dr., is the president; Richard Kilian, 217 E. Elm St., vice president; William Kensley, 323 Rawlings St., secretary, and Mrs. Kensley, treasurer.

When a minister of the church comes here, as expected in January, he will take up residence for at least a year, while he carries on what was described a missionary work—that is, he will try to get in touch with Lutherans and anyone interested in the Lutheran church and weld them together into a formal church organization.

Meanwhile, the Lutherans who have been brought together in the loosely knit temporary organization are laying plans for the coming of the minister.

Kensley and William Mason were delegated at the last meeting to try to locate a building, or a room, in which meetings can be held.

THE NEXT meeting is tentatively scheduled for the first week in January. Mrs. Miller explained that the group hopes to develop more concrete plans for the formation of church before the minister arrives later in the month.

The Rev. Donis D. Patterson, rector of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, opened the last meeting with a prayer and then cited some of the problems that are bound to confront any group in forming a new church.

Part of his talk stressed the true meaning of fellowship, which, he said, is important, not only within the church membership, but also with members of other churches.

St. Andrew's Church here was a mission for many years and raised to church status only a relatively few years ago, shortly before the new church building was erected on the Greenfield Rd. at the southern edge of the city.

Mrs. Miller said that anyone interested in helping organize the Lutherans here may get in touch with any of the temporary officers.

Gun Moll, 15, Sobs

lives or dies, Starkweather said: "It don't make no difference to me."

Trial testimony covered what prosecutors referred to as the entire series of "atrocious, shocking events."

Last Jan. 21, Starkweather killed Carl's mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Bartlett, and Carl's half-sister, Betty Jean Bartlett, 2, at the Bartlett home in Lincoln.

Whether Carl was present at the time became a disputed issue. Starkweather said she was a witness and casually watched television while he disposed of the bodies. Carl said she came home from school to find her parents gone and Starkweather pointing a gun in her face.

Carl said Starkweather gave her a story that family members were being held prisoner at some other Lincoln home and harm would come to them if Carl didn't obey Starkweather's commands.

Not until she was taken into custody more than a week later did she learn that her parents already had been killed, she said.

This became a key issue in the case, the state contending Carl knew all along her family had been slain.

The jury began considering evidence Thursday morning that the trim little brunette aided and abetted condemned killer Charles Starkweather in one of 11 slayings he has admitted.

Nearly 12 hours later the seven men and five women quit for the night.

Carl and her attorneys have contended she was Starkweather's hostage, a fear-stricken girl without opportunity to escape a mad-dened killer.

Carl is accused of first degree murder and first degree murder in the commission of a robbery in the shooting of Robert W. Jensen, 17, Bennett, Neb., schoolboy.

Starkweather, 19, her ex-sweetheart, was condemned to die on the same charge.

Deaths, Funerals

J. Martin Cox

J. Martin Cox, 71, died at 8:20 p. m. Thursday in Memorial Hospital where he had been a patient for three weeks. He had been in failing health for six months.

A native and lifelong resident of Washington C. H., he had been the hardware department manager of the W. P. Noble Implement Co. in Bloomington for about the last two years.

As a young man in the horse and buggy days, he was associated with his father, George Cox, in the livery business with a stable on S. Fayette St. When the automobile came common use, the livery stable was closed and the building converted into a garage.

From those early days, he carried through life a love of fine horses. He judged many horse shows and was one of the keystones of those held at the Night Fair here for several years. He also showed horses in this area before that time. Because of his interest in harness horses, he was prominent for many years as assistant to the speed committee in carrying out the Fair race programs.

He was a member of Grace Methodist Church, and active in its affairs as long as his health permitted, and a member of the Masonic Lodge.

He is survived by his wife, Mabel; a daughter, Mrs. Rosemary Darlington of West Jefferson; a son, George (Bud) Cox of Urbana and five grandchildren.

Services will be held at 10 a. m. Monday in the Gerstner Funeral Home by the Rev. L. J. Poe, pastor of Grace Church. Burial will be in the Washington Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 7 p. m. Saturday.

Jimmie Hidy

Services for Jimmie Ann Hidy, 3, who died Thursday morning in Children's Hospital, Columbus, will be held 10:30 a. m. Saturday in St. Andrew's Episcopal Church by the Rev. Donis D. Patterson, the pastor.

Little Jimmie, the daughter of Mrs. Shizue Hidy, a Japanese war bride, 134½ Oakland Ave., succumbed to lockjaw, which developed from a small scratch on her leg.

Burial will be in the Washington Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Gerstner Funeral Home any time.

Ralph M. Ater

Graveside services were held Friday afternoon in Brown's Chapel Cemetery, near Clarksburg, for Ralph Madera Ater Jr., son of Madera and Virginia Cochender Ater, Route 2, who died at birth Friday morning in Memorial Hospital. The Rev. De Loss Smith, pastor of the Clarksburg Methodist Church, officiated, and burial was in charge of the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home here.

Survivors, besides the parents, are two sisters, Linda Sue and Linda Mae, and two brothers, Danny and Robert, all at home; two half-sisters, Mrs. Evelyn Jacobs, New Holland, and Miss Barbara Ater, Circleville; a half brother, Robert Eugene Ater, U. S. Navy.

Compromise Said Little Rock's Need

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Little Rock school problem won't be solved until "those in the middle get a belly full," says Chris E. Finkbeiner, who lost to Gov. Orval E. Faubus in the Arkansas gubernatorial election.

Finkbeiner, a meat packer turned politician, predicted in an interview: "Our Little Rock school situation is going to get a lot worse before it's going to get better. People will be hurt—people will be killed."

"I hate to say it, but there is no short-cut solution because the people will not listen to compromise."

Finkbeiner was here to attend the National Independent Meat Packers Assn. meeting.

Mel Ott's Life Hangs in Balance

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—One-time National League slugging star Mel Ott was in critical condition today following eight-hour surgery and doctors said his chances for survival were "very poor."

The former New York Giants' player-manager, injured in a two-car collision last week, underwent surgery for kidney complications Thursday night. Following the surgery, doctors first said his condition was a shade improved, but gave him little chance today.

The 49-year old Ott faces possible new surgery, but the hospital (Touro Infirmary) said it cannot be considered immediately because of his condition.

Plumbing Bids Opened

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The L.P.Z. Construction Co. of Bellefontaine Thursday submitted the apparent low bid of $18,966 for new plumbing and room alterations at two cottages for the Ohio Reformatory for Women at Marysville. The state estimate was $27,332.

IT'S SO EASY TO PLACE A WANTED AD.

Probation Said Better for Man Than Prison Rap

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP)—It's cheaper to put a man on probation than it is to put him in prison. And it's an effective method of preventing future crime.

That's the opinion of the 15-member Ohio Committee on Delinquency and Crime. So why, the committee asks, does the state keep pouring thousands of people into its already over-crowded penal institutions?

To support its contention that probation be increased, the committee presents this argument:

1. It costs $1,000 a year to keep an inmate in prison $200 to put him on probation for a year.

2. With more prisoners on probation, there's less space needed to house them. That cuts down on money to build new institutions.

3. A prisoner on probation can work and support his family. If he's in prison, welfare funds frequently are needed to keep the family going.

"There it has been tried, adequate probation has proven to be considerably more economical and provides equal protection to the community as does incarceration in as many as 75 per cent of the cases," the committee said.

"In its aspects as an effective treatment method, it prevents future crime."

But two recent studies indicate a "shocking lack of adequate and uniform probation services in Ohio," the committee added.

It said Ohio's 88 counties are spending about 3 million dollars a year for juvenile and adult probation services. This compares with 15 million dollars that the state spends annually to care for inmates of penal and correctional institutions.

The latter figure doesn't include about 16½ millions currently being spent to build new institutions, the committee said.

With commitments to Ohio prisons increasing yearly, Ohio taxpayers will be faced with spending an additional 60.2 million dollars by 1962, the group asserted. That's over and above money needed to take care of new buildings and programs for the present inmate population—about 13,500, and expected to jump to 15,000 in two years.

The committee met Thursday at Boys Industrial School here and made several recommendations to improve the state's probation program.

Primarily, the committee said, what's needed is more probation personnel at higher salaries, and state subsidies to help the program along. At present, it explained, the state contributes nothing toward county probation costs.

Machinist Strike Trans World Airline

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Trans World Airlines machinists struck today just as the union announced the airline had made a new proposal.

Pickets were placed at the TWA building at the Municipal Airport here.

Cliff Miller, chairman of District 142 of the International Assn. of Machinists, announced the new proposal as he left a negotiating session with company representatives. He said, "We will take it under advisement."

Meantime, he said, the strike will go on.

Called out on strike were nearly 7,000 machinists.

Stassen Set For Campaign Against Nixon

CLEVELAND (AP)—Harold E. Stassen made it clear in an interview here Thursday night that he will go all out to keep Vice President Nixon from getting the Republican presidential nomination in 1960.

He told a reporter he might even try to become a candidate himself if circumstances were such that he could deliver any votes to a Nixon rival. Thus, he explained, he would not "in a real sense" be seeking the nomination for himself.

Stassen repeated in the interview his comments at the White House Nov. 12 when he came from a session with President Eisenhower and proposed four possible GOP presidential candidates for 1960. The four he suggests are Gov-elect Nelson Rockefeller of New York, Cabot Lodge Jr., Treasury Secretary Robert Anderson and Interior Secretary Fred Seaton.

Looking back to the election earlier this month, Stassen noted that the Republicans fared worst in three states where Nixon campaigned—California, Ohio and Indiana.

"I basically believe our party should be more a party of working people, small businessmen and farmers," Stassen explained. "More in the tradition of Teddy Roosevelt and Abraham Lincoln—more progressive, in other words."

"It's been those convictions which I've held all my life which brought me into opposition with Nixon, and with the people who tried to button up the nomination for him."

Ike Says

over a 110-mile highway-rail link and a network of canals.

Western military traffic uses these same lifelines. However, it is checked through Soviet controls as agreed under postwar four-power agreements.

The United States, France and Britain do not recognize East Germany and refuse to have any dealings with its regime.

Sources said the East-West German agreement also provided for an exchange of West German steel for East German soft coal, mainly for the supply of Berlin.

The West Germans have always felt they hold a trump card with the East Germans in the Berlin dispute because of the interzonal trade issue. East Germany is anxious to continue interzonal trade in order to help fulfill its ambitious economic plans.

Trade talks between East and West Germany were carried on a semi-official basis in Berlin as before, they were regarded as being of a technical nature, which did not involve Bonn recognition of East Germany.

The agreement on access to Berlin would not interfere, however, with any Communist plan to close the border between East and West Berlin. West Berlin officials freely predicted this will be the next East German move.

By this action the East Germans could cut off free travel without passports between the two sectors of the city to close an escape hatch through which more than a million East Germans have fled to the West.

Stopping this refugee flow appears to be one of the major objectives of Nikita Khrushchev's efforts to drive the Western Allies from Berlin. The Soviet premier demanded Nov. 10 that the United States, Britain and France withdraw their occupation troops.

Andrei Smirnov, Soviet ambassador to West Germany, told Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in Bonn Thursday that Moscow had decided to pull out of the four-power occupation under which Berlin operates.

The Allies refuse to abandon West Berlin to the Communists surrounding it.

1 Pct. Sales Tax Hike Is Studied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—What would a one per cent boost in the state sales tax add to the state's revenues?

About 70 million dollars annually, according to a report submitted Thursday to a committee of the Legislative Service Commission. The committee is studying state and local government financing problems.

The report also showed reinstating the penny tax on sales between 9 and 41 cents would produce an additional 10 millions and repeal of use exemptions would add another 36 millions.

Abolition of sales tax stamps would add another 10 millions. The sales tax, biggest single revenue producer for the state, yields about 221 million dollars annually.

Washington High School By-Lines

By JOHN OTIS CORE

The first club to be organized this school year was the Future Nurses of America. This group of girls in only the senior high school, boasting a membership of 41, has for many years stood out as promoting within the student a desire for a career in the nursing profession.

Helped by their advisor, Mrs. Alice Decker, the club devotes much of their time during the year to such service projects as: assisting with the blood bank, giving baskets at Christmas, and, this year, buying sheets for the hospital.

These girls also have money-making projects. Each year, to make one or more scholarships available to deserving seniors, the club must sponsor various activities for fund-raising. This year a bake sale has been planned for before Christmas, as well as one in the spring, plus the Christmas Ball and a sock hop after a basketball game.

The programs for the meetings of the FNA this year will attempt to acquaint the girls with the hospitals they can attend for training. Not only this, but the duties they would have as registered nurses will also be explained. However, the most important feature of the program will not be neglected in helping the individual discover if nursing is her true desire.

Besides these, the program will also feature a registered nurse to teach the members a few of the practical things which are necessary in becoming successful in this profession.

There is no doubt whatever but that this club is closely woven in friendship, which promotes success in working together. Realizing this, along with the program planned, it is clearly visible that this year will be the best ever for the Future Nurses.

Recently the Future Nurses Club of Washington High School held its installation of officers and new members. In this service, the individual officers, in an impressive candlelight ceremony, were required to light their candles and pledge to perform the duties of their office.

Moving in turn through the service, the officers elected, Pat Hagan, president; Paulette Pennington, vice president; Judy Lundberg, secretary; and Helen Smith treasurer.

Then Mrs. Charles Shaper, registered nurse, addressed the group on the theme "The Fundamental Principles of Character Building as a Background for Nursing." The service ended with light refreshments served to the group.

HI-Y CLUB

There was a short meeting of the HI-Y Club Tuesday evening at the high school to place each individual on one of the year-long club committees. These committees include all of the club membership. Committees appointed and their chairmen are: Program Duane Callender and Tom Rodenfels; finance, Tom Trimmer, worship, Randy Mann; membership, Byron Palmer; publicity, Mike Lawrence; service, Jim Hidy; and social, Chuck Hire.

There was also a discussion among the group concerning attendance at the club convention in Athens. Volunteers were asked to go to the assemblage which will feature speakers and a meal for the club members on the Ohio University campus. There was a good response to this call, and Washington will be represented in large quantity at Athens on December 6.

The top tunes for this week are: (1) "Need You," (2) "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," (3) "Walk in' Along," (4) "Sweet and Innocent," and (5) "Dance with the Teacher." Up and coming is "The All American Boy."

CANDY SALE FOR BANDS

This year, as last, the Senior High and the Junior High bands are having their candy-selling campaign. This year's sale offers special significance in that it decides the fate of the idea of the band trip to Washington D. C. in the spring.

Selling from house to house and on the streets, will help send the band from one Washington to the other even though it will not be entirely sufficient. Everybody is urged to buy a "Booster Bar"!!

WIT AND WISDOM

The past few weeks have offered among other things, great philosophical thoughts on Mrs. Gordon's blackboard in Room 110. Stimulated by these words of wisdom, many students have no doubt been spurred on to more of this teacher's favorite activity for students—work, but pleasant work at that.

These two thoughts have appeared recently: "Sitting and dreaming takes just as much time as sitting and planning," and "There is no royal road to learning."

There have also been strange things going in on lab periods these days it seems. Rumor has it that Becky Robinson, Ruth Ann Arnold, Mary Jane Limes, and Mary Kay West have been roasting marshmallows. Must have tasted an awfully lot like bunsen burner.

Coffman's Corner: Sign on jail door—"We choose the cell, you pick the lock."

Mr. Domenico was in charge of the band on Tuesday afternoon.

Did anyone hear that story about the man who walked in the restaurant and said, "I'll take it at sandwich with the raisins on it," and as he reached for the sandwich, the raisins all flew away?

Rumor has it that someone has been eating the apples for dissection in biology class. But the real question is who's eating the insects?

Tom Rodenfels's Witticisms—"Me no care what your name is, you no carve "Z" on stomach!" Also—"Me no care what your name is fat man, get reindeer off roof!"

Someone has said that a student in Mrs. Iuen's seventh grade geography class though, the English Channel was on television.

"As I was walking along one day, a thought came into my head 'Cheer up,'" it said, "things could be worse," and I cheered up, and, sure enough, things got worse!

The question going around school is—"Who in the Hi-Y club doesn't like Alexander Graham Bell?"

FUTURE TEACHERS INSTALL

On Thursday morning the Future Teachers Club of Washington High School held their installation of officers. In the impressive candlelight ceremony the officers repeated their pledge: "I promise to fulfill the duties of my office in the Future Teachers of America and to further its progress in any way that I can."

The new members were not inducted at this ceremony because of the fact that they must qualify during the year by attending meetings and working on points in order to be officially made members of the club at the end of the year.

The club, following installation, discussed plans for a dance over the Thanksgiving holiday. The theme was decided upon by the group as "South of the Border."

After this the plans for making of Christmas baskets were gone over. Then Mrs. Grillo, the advisor for the group, spoke on the plans that are brewing for the bringing of a foreign student by the Rotary Club to the high school next year. These men have been working in conjunction with the AAUW recently with the same plans being set up for the following year by this organization.

Also the attention of many high school students here has been attracted by the prospect of sending one of our own pupils in two years. The nationality of the foreign student, Mrs. Grillo said, will be decided by the high school students themselves in free ballot.

OSU Academic Requirements Are Tightened

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Higher academic standards will take effect at Ohio State University next summer, the university warned some 1,700 students and their parents Thursday.

Letters calling attention to the approaching change were mailed by the university's five undergraduate colleges to all students who were enrolled before the summer of 1957 and whose grades average below a "C."

Under OSU's higher academic standards enacted in 1957, students are required to earn a 1.9 average ("C"—2.0; "D"—1.0) to enter their seventh quarter in the university, a 2.0 average to be admitted to their eighth quarter, and 2.0 to graduate. A 1.8 average previously was required for graduation.

Bricker Mails His Choice For Judgeship

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Republican Sen. John W. Bricker confirmed Thursday that he wrote a letter to the Justice Department naming his choice of a man to fill a vacant judgeship on the sixth District Court of Appeals.

But he declined to confirm or deny that his choice was Donald W. Hornbeck, 55, Cleveland attorney and long-time Bricker friend and associate.

There had been published reports that Bricker recommended Hornbeck. And Ray C. Bliss, state Republican chairman, has said he will go along with any choice the senior senator makes.

Hornbeck has had no judicial experience.

The Sixth District Court vacancy was created by the appointment of Judge Potter Stewart to the U. S. Supreme Court. The post will be filled by the President in consultation with the Justice Department. Traditionally, the recommendation of senators and other party leaders is considered.

The vacancy has been in the news recently, principally because of reports that the job is sought by Republican Gov. C. William

All counties in the South Central Ohio district with the exception of Madison showed an improvement over last year in sales of prepaid sales tax receipts for the week ending Nov. 8.

Fayette County, with six-day sales of $11,412, nearly doubled last year's figure for the same week and brought its total receipts since July 1 to $145,867, less than $7,000 below the total for the corresponding period last year. Receipts during the same November week in 1957 were $5,444.

All seven counties in the district are trailing last year in cumulative collections, although the difference in Highland County is only slightly more than $100.

STATEWIDE, sales tax receipts for the week ending Nov. 8, trailed 1957 by 45 per cent, while cumulative collections are down 8.36 per cent.

Many Confused over Agricultural Surplus

A well versed Fayette County farmer was heard to ask the other day whether or not, in the reasonably near future, we are going to be able to "eat our way out" of our agricultural surpluses.

As a matter of fact that very question covers one of the greatest points of confusion in the public mind.

Most of us have heard it explained that our current over-abundance in many crops is only of a temporary nature and that the explosive uptrend in our population will shortly overtake and perhaps surpass our ability to feed and clothe ourselves.

Because of such statements and opinions publicly expressed there is understandable conflict and confusion in the minds of many people, including farmers themselves.

In thinking this over, many people base their assumption that there will continue to be plenty of food for us in the foreseeable future on the fact that our agricultural production growth is still gathering momentum. One thoughtful study concluded on this subject, with reference to both the United States and Canada, holds that "the annual surplus of production is likely to become more severe, continuous and apparently permanent, if no more effective measures than at present are taken toward adjustment."

Commenting on all this, one Western newspaper recently mentioned several studies, equally reliable to point out the probability that the supply of farm products will outdistance demands up to 1967, at least.

Facts of the case are that with new methods and new modern machinery, farmers could, despite the remarkable records they have made, vastly increase their production over present levels.

One agricultural authority recently said that "we are farming nowhere nearly as intensively as we could if circumstances justified the need for additional production."

'Happy Birthday!' Scares Her

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — My wife, Frances, has a haggard look today.

The same thing happened at this time every year.

She is haunted by a fear. She is afraid somebody will jump out before or behind her and holler: "Happy birthday!"

Well, a birthday isn't really such a dreadful thing. Everybody knows the importance of social occasions.

My wife isn't unaware of the pleasures of social occasions. She would accept an invitation to watch a blood transfusion, and even give blood if it would help make a better party. Anything to get out of the house.

She loves all these gatherings except the ones where the people leap out and yell "Happy birthday!" and mean her.

Her inherent modesty then interrupts her pleasure. That and the knowledge she will face an inevitable question—age.

To tell the truth Frances is shy about her age. Where can you find girls like that any more? She knows that sooner or later one of the guests is sure to ask, "Francie, how many candles should we put on the cake?"

To Frances, her age is an inviolate secret, and if a foreign power—or a woman next door—should get this information and spread it around, for sure it would be a tough century. Where I live, anyway.

It does me no good to brag on her when friends press me on the subject.

"All I know is that when Cleopatra was unraveled before Caesar," I remark. "My wife didn't object to the project—but she did try to pick the pattern of the rug."

"Then there was that moment before Yorktown. Frances criticized the hors d'oeuvres, did admire the battle."

"Later there was the congress at Vienna, and my wife shook her head. The draperies, yes. The people, no. She missed Gettysburg, and arrived late at Appomattox, and she said that ceremony would be better remembered today if it had had the sure feminine touch. She has never retreated from this position."

Well, late tonight, at a birthday party for Frances, when the power of the martini equals the strength of human sympathy, my wife gets a kind of awesome respect a woman really deserves. Particularly, one with all that background.

The guests have a pure unalloyed sense of pleasure at being in the presence of true greatness, and I must say, as her husband, I sensed the same thing long ago.

Frances accepts birthday tributes with a gratitude that is sincere but has a frosty reserve. She holds her secret and intends to. Sooner or later a guest always asks, "Oh, Frances, how many candles should we light on your birthday cake?"

And Frances turns to me, and there is but one answer: "One candle forever." Happy birthday, Frances.

Are We Afraid To Laugh?

By George Sokolsky

Corey Ford, in an interesting piece in "The Saturday Evening Post," asks the very pertinent question "Are you afraid to laugh?"

The question is pertinent because people these days do not really laugh.

They grin; they grimace; they snicker; they giggle; but they do not laugh. There is no uproar of laughter. There is no belly laugh.

True noise has become impolite unless it comes out of a machine. It used to be that the purpose of dining was to talk and talk was usually disputative, but never pompous. Nothing is funnier than a pompous person attempting to establish his personality like a heavy hammer banging away at an idea.

It is a pleasure to listen to those new hi-fi machines which make so much noise or to a television late show. The pompous person realizes that his pomposity covers intellectual insecurity, and he must keep the act going to be noticed.

However, that is not the only reason one does not laugh. It used to be that when one went to a public dinner, the speakers permitted themselves wit and humor and some understanding of human nature. But in these days of synthetics, with most speeches written by ghosts, the output is lethal.

After-dinner speeches are a cause for the increased consumption of anti-gas powders and other nostrums which are advertised even on television without the burp showing.

The failure of vaudeville ended the real jokesters. Radio and television are afraid of dialects because sponsors are afraid of boycotts. Nevertheless a dialect is wonderful fun and a dialect story, well told, sub rosa perhaps by Harry Hersfield, is always worth a laugh.

There used to be humorous magazines and humorous columnists, as Corey Ford points out, but they are all gone unless one is willing to accept some of the extra-pontifical stuff as a form of humor. There used to be humorists like Mark Twain, for that matter, or Will Rogers.

Today, there are none, although a few mean to be. Why has not the 20th century — the middle of it — produced a Mark Twain? There is so much to laugh about. There is not a single satirist in the English language.

Writing, like everything else, supplies a want, and if there is no demand, there is no supply. The would-be humorist is writing "whodunnits" and the satirist, such as Westbrook Pegler might have been, is telling the politicians how to be decent, a most futile task and utterly unappreciated.

Pegler's Spelvin stories might have made great literature if they were not confined to the size of a

Dems Hoping To Sign Up $1,000 Boys

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new exclusive club may be in the making—open only to Democrats with a thousand dollars to spare.

The Democratic National Committee expects to discuss the club, and other fund raising possibilities, at its Dec. 6 meeting.

The party is about $700,000 in the red. If 700 Democrats joined a proposed "700 Club" for $1,000 each, they would wipe out the debt.

Kenneth M. Birkhead, the committee's finance director, said efforts would be made to recruit club members from among Democrats wealthy enough to contribute $1,000 each. The biggest drive would be made in those states that had the biggest Democratic gains in the Nov. 4 elections.

About $600,000 of the Democratic deficit is a legacy of the 1956 elections, when Adlai Stevenson was defeated by President Eisenhower.

The Republicans, who lost this year, had all their bills paid on Nov. 1.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

LEON FOREM tells about a farmer, "a bit over 90," who strolled over to the town graveyard one afternoon with a caddy. The caddy pointed to one stone and said "There lies Timothy Oberdorf." "How old was he?" asked our farmer. "In his sixties," said the caddy. "Well," philosophized the farmer amiably, "a man's got to go some time." He was equally unmoved by the graves of others who had passed on in their 60s and 70s.

All was changed, however, when the caddy said, "Why, here's the last resting place of Manfred Jones who died at 92."

The farmer, now visibly shaken, said, "Tarnation! So they've reached that age, too!"

Customer in a Tulsa gift shoppe announced "I want to send a good luck card to a man who's drilling for oil on my property."

"I've got just the thing for you," said the clerk—and handed him a "get well" card.

Diet and Health Why Torture Yourself With Nerve Tension?

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

YOU CAN WORK your way out of tension.

Even an ordinary work load which, under normal circumstances, wouldn't be considered at all difficult, can, if you are under tension, become almost unbearable.

The chief trouble is that the task seems to be bigger than it actually is. And it becomes doubly difficult to tackle any portion of it, even though you know it must be done.

Practical Way

Now there is a practical way of attacking the problem.

First, establish what the most urgent tasks are. Then get at them, one at a time and set everything else aside. Keep at them until you have all the "must" jobs finished.

After this, all that remains is the relatively easy work. Although it may have looked like a staggering task before, I think you will now find it a much more simple job.

Now there are a couple of "Don'ts" that go along with this advice.

Perfection Impossible

For one thing, don't expect to be perfect in everything you do. Do your job the best way you can, but remember the boss makes mistakes, too, even if no one tells him about them.

After all, he hired the office manager, didn't he? And that certainly was a mistake, wasn't it?

If possible, of course, it is best to do the things first which you do well. Generally, these are the things you like to do. As for work at which you are not so good, give it your best and be satisfied.

Attitude Toward Others

Be satisfied with the efforts of your fellow employees, too. Don't expect perfection from them any more than you expect it from yourself. The guy next to you may not do a specific job as well as you, but he probably excels in something else.

This brings us to the last

"Don't."

Don't be too ambitious.

Common Feeling

When you are under emotional tension, it is fairly common to feel that you have to get your work finished before the next fellow.

Usually there is no necessity to beat your fellow employees. If they are aware of your attitude it tends to make them compete with you. Thus everybody speeds up—much to the boss's delight—but to your emotional detriment.

You see, you can work your way out of tension, but you have to know how to go about it.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

T.K.: I have heard that a woman can have male hormones. Is this true?

Answer: Normally there is some production of male hormones in the female. However, this is usually too minute to make any great difference.

Ike, GOP Leaders To Map New Legislature Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican congressional leaders will meet with President Eisenhower early next month to map next year's legislative program under a White House injunction to hold down spending.

The President set what appeared to be the administration's guidelines for the incoming Congress at a meeting Wednesday with Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts, the House GOP leader.

"The general policy will be to cut down wherever possible," Martin reported afterwards.

Later, Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas told a news conference the new, heavily Democratic Congress will be "prudent and careful of the taxpayers' dollar both at home and abroad."

"In some areas I think there will be an excess of appropriations above what the President asks," Johnson said. "But in a good many areas the appropriations will be less."

Martin made clear that administration objectives for the two years of the 86th Congress will be to avoid increasing the budget deficit—estimated at more than 12 billion dollars for this fiscal year—and to hold the line on the government's indebtedness.

The White House conference between Eisenhower and GOP congressional leaders is due around Dec. 10. It will deal chiefly with budget problems for the fiscal year starting next July.

Johnson, who met with Eisenhower Tuesday night, said the President has invited Democratic leaders to go over the legislative program with him. No date has

Car Makers Urged To Curb Pollution

WASHINGTON (AP)—Air pollution experts recommended today that the automobile industry develop devices to control pollution from car and truck exhausts.

This was one of the major proposals approved at the final day of the first national conference on Air Pollution attended by 900 government and industry experts.

The panel on control methods singled out the auto industry for special attention. It acted in view of many contentions at the conference that auto exhausts are becoming a chief source of smog and contaminated air.

The Nation Today

James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—Outwardly the world seems not too turbulent — but it's bubbling.

Washington can't be sure where or when it will bubble over.

For instance, the Eisenhower administration appears to be taking a calm view of the Russian effort to force the Western Allies out of Berlin. This hasn't reached a crisis stage yet. Maybe it never will. But it could happen suddenly.

Iran, with which this country is trying to negotiate a defense agreement, lies along the Soviet Union's southern border. Premier Khrushchev has warned Iran against signing. Trouble may pop there.

Iraq had been linked in a defense alliance with Iran — with U.S. backing but without any formal military agreement. Then a revolt by Iraqi army officers slew the Iraqi king.

This month administration officials expressed alarm over what they regard as a marked increase in Communist influence among backers of the new revolutionary regime in Iraq. Something similar could happen in Iran.

While the excitement over the Red Chinese bombardment of Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist troops on the offshore island of Quemoy has quieted down a bit, the shooting is not ended. No one in Washington is in a position to predict what comes next.

Meanwhile, one government after another has come under the thumb of military men in recent months.

This has happened — besides Iraq — in the Sudan, in Pakistan, in Burma, in Thailand. Earlier the military threw out King Farouk of Egypt which is now under an army man, President Nasser.

The military leaders may at the moment be giving their countries an appearance of calm or even stability. But what the Eisenhower administration doesn't know, and can't even guess about, is what comes after the military men, or what turn they'll take.

It's possible the military will hold power in these various places for years. But if not, who succeeds them? Communists, Communist sympathizers, anti-Western forces, or men anxious to play friendly with Russia and cold to the West?

Military men are in control in several Latin American countries, too.

This week Secretary of State Dulles made a speech about the desire of the United States to see more and more independence for countries once held as colonies.

But independence doesn't necessarily mean establishment of democracy or, if democracy is the starting-off point, that democracy will survive.

Sugar Coat On Aspirin Draws Fire

TORONTO (AP)—Sugar coating of pills has gone too far, says the Journal of the Canadian Medical Assn.

An article by Dr. Henri J. Breault singles out sugared pills of aspirin. He says the medical society recorded 121 cases of headache tablet poisoning in Windsor, Ont., during a 240-day period. One of the victims died.

The compound is usually harmless if given in the recommended dose, he says. But if a child finds the bottle of pleasant-tasting tablets he may not stop with one or two. There is no known antidote and the margin of safety in infants and small children is small.

A Journal editorial says poisoning accounts for 43 per cent of all accidental deaths among children 2 and 3.

Children from 1 to 2 usually get into household bleaching or cleaning powders stored at floor-level. Those 2 and 3 are more often poisoned by pills and drugs from window sills, drawers and cupboards.

"The flavoring or coating of bitter and distasteful medicines has apparently defeated its purpose by making drugs too attractive and similar to candies," says the Journal.

Toledo Plans DiSalle Recognition Affair

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Mayor John Yager today appointed co-chairmen for a "Mike DiSalle Recognition Day" committee to arrange a public dinner honoring the governor-elect.

Co-chairman Jules Lippman and Hugh Laughlin will name other committee members.

The dinner probably will be held at the Sports Arena in January before the inauguration Jan. 12.

Cincinnati Historian Issues New Volume

CINCINNATI (AP)—Dr. Walter C. Langsam, president of the University of Cincinnati who is widely known as a historian, has edited a new volume called "Historic Documents of World War II," it was announced here today.

The book presents 50 documents dealing with the war. Each is prefaced by introductory notes by Dr. Langsam giving the historical setting and outlining its significance.

"Later there was the congress at Vienna, and my wife shook her head. The draperies, yes. The people, no. She missed Gettysburg, and arrived late at Appomatox, and she said that ceremony would be better remembered today if it had had the sure feminine touch. She has never retreated from this position."

Well, late tonight, at a birthday party for Frances, when the power of the martinis equals the strength of human sympathy, my wife gets a kind of awesome respect a woman really deserves. Particularly, one with all that background.

The guests have a pure unalloyed sense of pleasure at being in the presence of true greatness, and I must say, as her husband, I sensed the same thing long ago.

Frances accepts birthday tributes with a gratitude that is sincere but has a frosty reserve. She holds her secret and intends to. Sooner or later a guest always asks, "Oh, Frances, how many candles should we light on your birthday cake?"

And Frances turns to me, and there is but one answer: "One candle forever."

Happy birthday, Frances.

Are We Afraid To Laugh?

By George Sokolsky

Corey Ford, in an interesting piece in "The Saturday Evening Post," asks the very pertinent question "Are you afraid to laugh?"

The question is pertinent because people these days do not really laugh.

They grin; they grimace; they snicker; they giggle; but they do not laugh. There is no uproar of laughter. There is no belly laugh.

True noise has become impolite unless it comes out of a machine. It used to be that the purpose of dining was to talk and talk was usually disputative, but never pompous. Nothing is funnier than a pompous person attempting to establish his personality like a heavy hammer banging away at an idea.

It is a pleasure to listen to those new hi-fi machines which make so much noise or to a television late show. The pompous person realizes that his pomposity covers intellectual insecurity, and he must keep the act going to be noticed.

However, that is not the only reason one does not laugh. It used to be that when one went to a public dinner, the speakers permitted themselves wit and humor and some understanding of human nature. But in these days of syntheses, with most speeches written by ghosts, the output is lethal.

After-dinner speeches are a cause for the increased consumption of anti-gas powders and other nostrums which are advertised even on television without the burp showing.

The failure of vaudeville ended the real jokesters. Radio and television are afraid of dialects because sponsors are afraid of boycotts. Nevertheless a dialect is wonderful fun and a dialect story, well told, sub rosa perhaps by Harry Hershfield, is always worth a laugh.

There used to be humorous magazines and humorous columns in the papers, as Corey Ford points out, but they are all gone unless one is willing to accept some of the extra-pontifical stuff as a form of humor. There used to be humorists like Mark Twain, for that matter, or Will Rogers.

Today, there are none, although a few mean to be. Why has not the 20th century—the middle of it—produced a Mark Twain? There is so much to laugh about. There is not a single satirist in the English language.

Writing, like everything else, supplies a want, and if there is no demand, there is no supply. The would-be humorist is writing "whodunnits" and the satirist, such as Westbrock Pegler might have been, is telling the politicians how to be decent, a most futile task and utterly unappreciated.

Pegler's Spelvin stories might have made great literature if they were not confined to the size of a

Dems Hoping To Sign Up $1,000 Boys

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new exclusive club may be in the making—open only to Democrats with a thousand dollars to spare.

The Democratic National Committee expects to discuss the club, and other fund raising possibilities, at its Dec. 6 meeting.

The party is about $700,000 in the red. If 700 Democrats joined a proposed "700 Club" for $1,000 each, they would wipe out the debt.

Kenneth M. Birkhead, the committee's finance director, said efforts would be made to recruit club members from among Democrats wealthy enough to contribute $1,000 each. The biggest drive would be made in those states that had the biggest Democratic gains in the Nov. 4 elections.

About $600,000 of the Democratic deficit is a legacy of the 1956 elections, when Adlai Stevenson was defeated by President Eisenhower.

The Republicans, who lost this year, had all their bills paid on Nov. 1.

IT'S SO EASY TO PLACE A WANT AD.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

LEON FOREM tells about a farmer, "a bit over 90," who strolled over to the town cemetery one afternoon with a caddy. The caddy pointed to one stone and said "There lies Timothy Oberdorf." "How old was he?" asked the farmer. "In his sixties," said the caddy. "Well," philosophized the farmer amiably, "a man's got to go some time." He was equally unmoved by the graves of others who had passed on in their 60s and 70s.

All was changed, however, when the caddy said, "Why, here's the last resting place of Manfred Jones who died at 92."

The farmer, now visibly shaken, said, "Tarnation! So they've reached that age, too!"

Customer in a Tulsa gift shoppe announced "I want to send a good luck card to a man who's drilling for oil on my property." "I've got just the thing for you," said the clerk—and handed him a "get well" card.

Why Torture Yourself With Nerve Tension?

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

YOU CAN WORK your way out of tension.

Even an ordinary work load which, under normal circumstances, wouldn't be considered at all difficult, can, if you are under tension, become almost unbearable.

The chief trouble is that the task seems to be bigger than it actually is. And it becomes doubly difficult to tackle any portion of it, even though you know it must be done.

Practical Way

Now there is a practical way of attacking the problem.

First, establish what the most urgent tasks are. Then get at them, one at a time and set everything else aside. Keep at them until you have all the "must" jobs finished.

After this, all that remains is the relatively easy work. Although it may have looked like a staggering task before, I think you will now find it a much more simple job.

Now there are a couple of "Don'ts" that go along with this advice.

Perfection Impossible

For one thing, don't expect to be perfect in everything you do. Do your job the best you can, but remember the boss makes mistakes, too, even if no one tells him about them.

After all, he hired the office manager, didn't he? And that certainly was a mistake, wasn't it?

If possible, of course, it is best to do the things first which you do well. Generally, these are the things you like to do. As for work at which you are not so good, give it your best and be satisfied.

Attitude Toward Others

Be satisfied with the efforts of your fellow employees, too. Don't expect perfection from them any more than you expect it from yourself. The guy next to you may not do a specific job as well as you, but he probably excels in something else.

This brings us to the last "Don't."

Don't be too ambitious.

Common Feeling

When you are under emotional tension, it is fairly common to feel that you have to get your work finished before the next fellow.

Usually there is no necessity to beat your fellow employees. If they are aware of your attitude it tends to make them compete with you. Thus everybody speeds up—much to the boss's delight—but to your emotional detriment.

You see, you can work your way out of tension, but you have to know how to do about it.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

T.K.: I have heard that a woman can have male hormones. Is this true?

Answer: Normally there is some production of male hormones in the female. However, this is usually too minute to make any great difference.

Ike, GOP Leaders To Map New Legislature Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican congressional leaders will meet with President Eisenhower early next month to map next year's legislative program under a White House injunction to hold down spending.

The President set what appeared to be the administration's guidelines for the incoming Congress at a meeting Wednesday with Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts, the House GOP leader.

"The general policy will be to cut down wherever possible," Martin reported afterwards.

Later, Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas told a news conference the new, heavily Democratic Congress will be "prudent and careful of the taxpayers' dollar both at home and abroad."

"In some areas I think there will be an excess of appropriations above what the President asks," Johnson said. "But in a good many areas the appropriations will be less."

Martin made clear that administration objectives for the two years of the 86th Congress will be to avoid increasing the budget deficit—estimated at more than 12 billion dollars for this fiscal year—and to hold the line on the government's indebtedness.

The White House conference between Eisenhower and GOP congressional leaders is due around Dec. 10. It will deal chiefly with budget problems for the fiscal year starting next July.

Johnson, who met with Eisenhower Tuesday night, said the President has invited Democratic leaders to go over the legislative program with him. No date has

Car Makers Urged To Curb Pollution

WASHINGTON (AP)—Air pollution experts recommended today that the automobile industry develop devices to control pollution from car and truck exhausts.

This was one of the major proposals approved at the final day of the first national conference on Air Pollution attended by 900 government and industry experts.

The panel on control methods singled out the auto industry for special attention. It acted in view of many contentions at the conference that auto exhausts are becoming a chief source of smog and contaminated air.

The Nation Today

James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—Outwardly the world seems not too turbulent — but it's bubbling.

Washington can't be sure where or when it will bubble over.

For instance, the Eisenhower administration appears to be taking a calm view of the Russian effort to force the Western Allies out of Berlin. This hasn't reached a crisis stage yet. Maybe it never will. But it could happen suddenly.

Iran, with which this country is trying to negotiate a defense agreement, lies along the Soviet Union's southern border. Premier Khrushchev has warned Iran against signing. Trouble may pop there.

Iraq had been linked in a defense alliance with Iran — with U.S. backing but without any formal military agreement. Then a revolt by Iraqi army officers slew the Iraqi king.

This month administration officials expressed alarm over what they regard as a marked increase in Communist influence among backers of the new revolutionary regime in Iraq. Something similar could happen in Iran.

While the excitement over the Red Chinese bombardment of Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist troops on the offshore island of Quemoy has quieted down a bit, the shooting is not ended. No one in Washington is in a position to predict what comes next.

Meanwhile, one government after another has come under the thumb of military men in recent months.

This has happened — besides Iraq — in the Sudan, in Pakistan, in Burma, in Thailand. Earlier the military threw out King Farouk of Egypt which is now under an army man, President Nasser.

The military leaders may at the moment be giving their countries an appearance of calm or even stability. But what the Eisenhower administration doesn't know, and can't even guess about, is what comes after the military men, or what turn they'll take.

It's possible the military will hold power in these various places for years. But if not, who succeeds them? Communists, Communist sympathizers, anti-Western forces, or men anxious to play friendly with Russia and cold to the West?

Military men are in control in several Latin American countries, too.

This week Secretary of State Dulles made a speech about the desire of the United States to see more and more independence for countries once held as colonies.

But independence doesn't necessarily mean establishment of democracy or, if democracy is the starting-off point, that democracy will survive.

Sugar Coat On Aspirin Draws Fire

TORONTO (AP)—Sugar coating of pills has gone too far, says the Journal of the Canadian Medical Assn.

An article by Dr. Henri J. Breault singles out sugared pills of aspirin. He says the medical society recorded 121 cases of headache tablet poisoning in Windsor, Ont., during a 240-day period. One of the victims died.

The compound is usually harmless if given in the recommended dose, he says. But if a child finds the bottle of pleasant-tasting tablets he may not stop with one or two. There is no known antidote and the margin of safety in infants and small children is small.

A Journal editorial says poisoning accounts for 43 per cent of all accidental deaths among children 2 and 3.

Children from 1 to 2 usually get into household bleaching or cleaning powders stored at floor-level. Those 2 and 3 are more often poisoned by pills and drugs from window sills, drawers and cupboards.

"The flavoring or coating of bitter and distasteful medicines has apparently defeated its purpose by making drugs too attractive and similar to candies," says the Journal.

Toledo Plans DiSalle Recognition Affair

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Mayor John Yager today appointed co-chairmen for a "Mike DiSalle Recognition Day" committee to arrange a public dinner honoring the governor-elect.

Co-chairman Jules Lippman and Hugh Laughlin will name other committee members.

The dinner probably will be held at the Sports Arena in January before the inauguration Jan. 12.

Cincinnati Historian Issues New Volume

CINCINNATI (AP)—Dr. Walter C. Langsam, president of the University of Cincinnati who is widely known as a historian, has edited a new volume called "Historic Documents of World War II," it was announced here today.

The book presents 50 documents dealing with the war. Each is prefaced by introductory notes by Dr. Langsam giving the historical setting and outlining its significance.

People . . . Places . . . and Things

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY
During the recent mild weather I was expecting to hear of at least one snake being seen within a few miles of this city. Since I have not heard of one, I will tell you a really worthwhile snake story.

To begin with, some of you folks will recall when Barnum and Bailey's Circus showed on the Old Fairground (now Wash-Ligon Oaks Addition) in 1911 and heavy rains made it impossible for horses to pull the heavy wagons from the ground.

The ground was soft and the big wagons went down to the axles, so it was impossible for the usual double teams of horses to budge them. However the circus men had been in similar predicaments before. They called upon "Tony," advertised as the biggest elephant in captivity, to move the wagons.

Tony, sinking almost to his knees in the oozy earth, was brought up behind one of the wagons and six or eight men got hold of the wagon tongue to guide it.

"Shove her, Tony!" shouted the elephant handler, and Tony, placing his massive skull against the wagon and sinking still deeper into the mud, started pushing. The wagon was soon out on Columbus Ave.

This was repeated until all wagons had been pushed from the mire to the street.

However there was one mishap that caused consternation and a wild scattering of the hundreds of spectators who had gathered to watch Tony move the wagons.

When it came to moving the huge cage of reptiles, Tony started pushing and the heavy wagon started to move. But the men holding the tongue to guide the wagon, failed to keep it going straight.

The wagon buckled with the result that Tony literally upset the big cage of snakes, and shattered it. Snakes began crawling out and moving away in all directions.

For two or three years afterward strange snakes were killed in that part of the city.

While the snake keeper declared that none of those which escaped were poisonous, there is reason to believe some of them were very dangerous.

Those who were present during the snake episode will never forget it.

care. But she doesn't put in with the folksy hucksters of togetherness. She doesn't want her child to be overparented.

"I remember," she said, "how my father would sometimes say, 'Well, today we're going to spend some time together.' So we'd take a walk or something and we'd both be glad when it was over."

"It's silly for parents and children to spend all their time together. Can you imagine anything duller than listening to the conversation of a 7-year-old all day? Or how dull he must find it to listen to his parents talk all day. Let each side have their own lives. They'll both be happier that way."

Joanne and husband Paul Newman plan to make their permanent home in New York City and come here only to make films.

"People are always telling me how great it is out here for children," she said. "Well, I was brought up in the South where we had a warm climate and large yards to play in, and I found I had little to do. There's plenty to do in New York."

"I especially don't want to bring up my children in an atmosphere where they're judged by the size of the car their parents drive."

"As for California being a healthier place for children, I'm not convinced."

During the recent mild weather I was expecting to hear of at least one snake being seen within a few miles of this city. Since I have not heard of one, I will tell you a really worthwhile snake story.

To begin with, some of you folks will recall when Barnum and Bailey's Circus showed on the Old Fairground (now Washington Oaks Addition) in 1911 and heavy rains made it impossible for horses to pull the heavy wagons from the ground.

The ground was soft and the big wagons went down to the axles, so it was impossible for the usual double teams of horses to budge them.

However the circus men had been in similar predicaments before. They called upon "Tony," advertised as the biggest elephant in captivity, to move the wagons.

Tony, sinking almost to his knees, in the oozy earth, was brought up behind one of the wagons and six or eight men got hold of the wagon tongue to guide it.

"Shove her, Tony!" shouted the elephant handler, and Tony, placing his massive skull against the wagon and sinking still deeper into the mud, started pushing.

The wagon was soon out on Columbus Ave.

This was repeated until all wagons had been pushed from the mire to the street.

However there was one mishap that caused consternation and a wild scattering of the hundreds of spectators who had gathered to watch Tony move the wagons.

When it came to moving the huge cage of reptiles, Tony started pushing and the heavy wagon started to move. But the men holding the tongue to guide the wagon, failed to keep it going straight.

The wagon buckled with the result that Tony literally upset; the big cage of snakes, and shattered it. Snakes began crawling out and moving away in all directions.

Even the big pythons and boas got loose, and there was a general scurrying about on the part of the circus men to round them up.

The larger snakes, or at least most of them, were soon captured and returned to the cage which had been hurriedly repaired.

However some of the smaller snakes, darting hither and yon, escaped and never were captured—at least not by the circus men.

Our aim is to provide the best of service at honest prices.

ERECTING SNOW FENCES
I notice state highway crews are now busy stringing the red picket fences in fields along main highways. These are at points where snow usually drifts badly during weather of blizzard proportions.

This has been done for the past two or three years and many miles of fence are used in this precautionary work. The fences retard drifting over highway.

It is only once in several years that such fences are usually needed, and their need is further lessened by the modern snow cleaning equipment owned by the State Highway Department through out the state.

At no time since the memorable blizzard at Thanksgiving time in 1952 has there been urgent need for snow fences.

American Girls Said 'Modest'

'Student' of Subject Outlines Findings

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—American girls are the most modest in the world, says John A. Zehnbauer, who has been studying this subject for half a century.

"French girls and German girls think nothing of wearing Bikini bathing suits," says the man who supplies most of the world with swimwear.

"In Australia and South Africa, Hong Kong and South America, the girls aren't worried about exposure. But in America we can't even get a model to pose in a Bikini."

Zehnbauer, with his brother Roy and their late partner, Carl Jantzen, has turned out swim suits for most of the bathing beauties of history, from Gloria Swanson to Gina Lollobrigida.

Since 1910, when he bought out a little knitting mill in Portland and knitted a suit for a local rowing team, he has made waterwear his chief concern. Today the Jantzen company has factories or licensees in 18 countries, studies the swim whims of every nation and collects design ideas from every corner of the world.

"The first women's bathing suits we made had sleeves, sailor collars, knee-length pants and skirts," says the tall, graying Zehnbauer, who looks 20 years younger than his announced age of 74.

"Then after the first World War, things changed abruptly. As girls took to short skirts and rolled stockings, they began cutting down on their bathing suits, too. When we found that women were cutting off our suits at the bottom and cutting the necklines down in back, we decided to make them the way they wanted them."

"That's been our procedure ever since. I don't think we've ever tried to force a new, brief style in swim suits. The public calls the turn, and we give them what they want."

When the one-piece bathing suit was banned on the beach at Atlantic City in the early 1920s, things looked black for a while.

"Quite a few of our customers were arrested," reminisces Zehnbauer, "but the ban didn't last long. The bluenoses are snowed under. They couldn't arrest everybody on the beach."

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mrs. G. E. Little was a guest.

Busy Bee Club Met With Mrs. Avery

Mrs. Eugene Avey extended the hospitalities of her home to 16 members of the Jeffersonville Busy Bee Garden Club Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Roy Fultz president, opened the meeting with a few minutes of silence in remembrance of two deceased members.

An article, "Woodland Ways," was read by Mrs. Fultz.

Club members will be guests of the Jamestown Garden Club for a brunch and meeting to be held in the Jamestown Methodist Church on Dec. 3.

Mrs. Roy Young and Mrs. Ray

Shoemaker reported on a meeting they attended at the Madison County Youth Center for all Madison County Garden Clubs.

A donation was made to the scholarship fund being sponsored by Garden Clubs.

Mrs. Young, program chairman, had each member answer the roll by naming their favorite fruit tree.

An article on "Ohio Pines," was read by Mrs. Neil Conner. She closed the program with the poem, "Autumn Gold." The Garden Club prayer followed.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mrs. G. E. Little was a guest.

American Girls Said 'Modest'

'Student' of Subject Outlines Findings

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—American girls are the most modest in the world, says John A. Zehnbauser, who has been studying this subject for half a century.

"French girls and German girls think nothing of wearing Bikini bathing suits," says the man who supplies most of the world with swimwear.

"In Australia and South Africa, Hong Kong and South America, the girls aren't worried about exposure. But in America we can't even get a model to pose in a Bikini."

Zehnbauser, with his brother Roy and their late partner, Carl Jantzen, has turned out swim suits for most of the bathing beauties of history, from Gloria Swanson to Gina Lollobrigida.

Since 1910, when he bought out a little knitting mill in Portland and knitted a suit for a local rowing team, he has made waterwear his chief concern. Today the Jantzen company has factories or licensees in 18 countries, studies the swim whims of every nation and collects design ideas from every corner of the world.

"The first women's bathing suits we made had sleeves, sailor collars, knee-length pants and skirts," says the tall, graying Zehnbauser, who looks 20 years younger than his announced age of 74.

"Then after the first World War, things changed abruptly. As girls took to short skirts and rolled stockings, they began cutting down on their bathing suits, too. When we found that women were cutting off our suits at the bottom and cutting the necklines down in back, we decided to make them the way they wanted them."

"That's been our procedure ever since. I don't think we've ever tried to force a new, brief style in swim suits. The public calls the turn, and we give them what they want."

When the one-piece bathing suit was banned on the beach at Atlantic City in the early 1920s, things looked black for a while.

"Quite a few of our customers were arrested," reminisces Zehnbauser, "but the ban didn't last long. The blueses are snowed under. They couldn't arrest everybody on the beach."

Ohio Farmer Says:

"d-CON STOPPED RATS FROM EATING ME OUT OF HOUSE AND HOME!"

Read What Lowell Geringer, Of Wauseon, Ohio, Has To Say About d-CON:

"Rats were a real problem with me. I had to get rid of them and so I turned to d-CON. I'd been using another rat-killer, but d-CON sure did the job. d-CON gets but it really kills rats. Let me tell you...d-CON stopped rats from eating me out of house and home!"

It's a fact—in the great corn and wheat belts of America, where farmers really know how to get rid of rats, d-CON outsmells all other rat and mouse killers combined!

Farmers know that d-CON is the quick, sure, easy way to rid their property of destructive, disease-bearing rats. For rats hungrily eat d-CON's exclusive LX 3-2-1 formula, never suspect it's bait, never get bait-shy, devour it without guessing that every bite puts another nail in their coffin. d-CON actually makes rats commit suicide.

d-CON is THERMO-SEALED—always reaches you "factory fresh." Economical, too. One package of d-CON makes several bait stations.

Remember, d-CON, used as directed, is safe to use around small children, pets, poultry and livestock, yet is guaranteed to keep your property rat and mouse free forever!

Researchers Find Method For Lengthy Blood Storage

CINCINNATI (AP)—Two Duke University medical researchers reported progress here Thursday on solving a major problem in heart surgery—how to store fresh blood for use in such operations for comparatively long periods.

The report was made to the American Assn. of Blood Banks convention by Drs. Wirt W. Smith and Ivan W. Brown of the Duke medical school.

They said they are using a substance known as EDTA—short for disodium ethylenediamine—tetraacetate—to keep blood from clotting for up to five days.

They reported blood stored this way has been used successfully in 40 open heart surgery cases. Up until now blood for such surgery had to be drawn from donors within 24 hours of the operation.

Other researchers said the development eventually might make possible the long-term storing of blood for open heart surgery.

It was explained that fresh blood stored for 21 days in blood banks is not suitable for open heart surgery.

Open heart surgery means that a patient's heart is bypassed through a heart-lung machine and the surgeon then can actually expose the inner heart. The machine, called a pump, is primed with fresh blood.

Fresh blood can be stored for up to 21 days for ordinary transfusions. It is kept unclotted by adding a solution containing citrate and dextrose (sugar). This solution, however, lowers the calcium content of the blood—a factor that may be fatal to heart surgery patients.

The Duke researchers said their research was aimed at halting the "harrassing expense and tragic-wasteful situations."

Comment on their report, Dr. Douglas M. Surgenor, Harvard medical school, said:

"Prior to this research, blood (up to 20 pints) had to be assembled from walking donors just before the heart operation.

"If the patient—at the last minute—was found to be inoperable because of a common cold or some other factor, the blood was wasted. If the blood was a rare type, this was particularly serious because it often meant going outside the community to find a new supply when the patient was considered ready for surgery.

"Using EDTA, Drs. Smith and Brown are able to assemble donors at greater leisure."

Dr. Surgenor explained that in the past, the drug heparin was added to the freshly drawn blood to prevent clotting and preserve the blood's calcium balance.

Heparin, however, was useful for a maximum of only 24 hours. If the blood was not used then, it was wasted. The Duke scientists said that if their EDTA-stored blood was not used in five days, it still could be used in normal transfusions for up to the normal 21 days.

Eastside Carnival Sponsored by PTA Saturday Evening

Only the usual last minute details remain to be taken care of before the first carnival is held in the new Eastside School, Elm and Willard Sts., Saturday evening.

It will start at 5 p. m. with the serving of sandwiches, homemade cake and pie and coffee for those who want to come early and get started on the evening's fun.

For entertainment there will be color cartoon movies and the inevitable fish pond and other almost traditional school carnival attractions. As a special feature, Mrs. Roy Wilson will be there to cut out silhouettes of black paper.

Homemade candy will be on the counter.

Mrs. Howard Miller is the general chairman and Mrs. Mae Dews Jr., the co-chairman. But, scores of other members of the Parent-Teacher Assn., which is putting on the carnival, already have started working on it and won't find much respite until long after it comes to an official end at 9:30 p. m.

The purpose, of course, is to raise money for the many "extra" things needed for the new school.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A big new vault is being rushed to completion in the Statehouse basement to help safeguard Ohio's growing stack of bonds.

Treasurer Roger W. Tracy reported Thursday that assets of four state retirement systems and the workmen's compensation system went well over the billion dollar mark last month.

Total "net worth" of the five systems hit $1,198,204,496 on Oct. 31. Included in that sum was the aggregate bond account of $1,183,434,529. The rest was cash.

Total over-all assets of those trust accounts increased more than 55% million dollars during the first four months of the book-keeping year which began last July 1.

Tracy cited figures to show the need for the new vault he expects to put into operation next month. During the past four months, he said bond holdings increased an average of 12% million dollars a month.

Besides the workmen's compensation system, the retirement systems are for teachers, public employees, school employees and the State Highway Patrol.

Researchers Find Method For Lengthy Blood Storage

CINCINNATI (AP)—Two Duke University medical researchers reported progress here Thursday on solving a major problem in heart surgery—how to store fresh blood for use in such operations for comparatively long periods.

The report was made to the American Assn. of Blood Banks convention by Drs. Wirt W. Smith and Ivan W. Brown of the Duke medical school.

They said they are using a substance known as EDTA—short for disodium ethylenediamine—tetraacetate—to keep blood from clotting for up to five days.

They reported blood stored this way has been used successfully in 40 open heart surgery cases. Up until now blood for such surgery had to be drawn from donors within 24 hours of the operation.

Other researchers said the development eventually might make possible the long-term storing of blood for open heart surgery.

It was explained that fresh blood stored for 21 days in blood banks is not suitable for open heart surgery.

Open heart surgery means that a patient's heart is bypassed through a heart-lung machine and the surgeon then can actually expose the inner heart. The machine, called a pump, is primed with fresh blood.

Fresh blood can be stored for up to 21 days for ordinary transfusions. It is kept unclotted by adding a solution containing citrate and dextrose (sugar). This solution, however, lowers the calcium content of the blood—a factor that may be fatal to heart surgery patients.

The Duke researchers said their research was aimed at halting the "harrassing expense and tragic wasteful situations."

Comment on their report, Dr. Douglas M. Surgenor, Harvard medical school, said:

"Prior to this research, blood (up to 20 pints) had to be assembled from walking donors just before the heart operation.

"If the patient—at the last minute—was found to be inoperable because of a common cold or some other factor, the blood was wasted. If the blood was a rare type, this was particularly serious because it often meant going outside the community to find a new supply when the patient was considered ready for surgery.

"Using EDTA, Drs. Smith and Brown are able to assemble donors at greater leisure."

Dr. Surgenor explained that in the past, the drug heparin was added to the freshly drawn blood to prevent clotting and preserve the blood's calcium balance.

Heparin, however, was useful for a maximum of only 24 hours. If the blood was not used then, it was wasted. The Duke scientists said that if their EDTA-stored blood was not used in five days, it still could be used in normal transfusions for up to the normal 21 days.

Eastside Carnival Sponsored by PTA Saturday Evening

Only the usual last minute details remain to be taken care of before the first carnival is held in the new Eastside School, Elm and Willard Sts., Saturday evening.

It will start at 5 p. m. with the serving of sandwiches, homemade cake and pie and coffee for those who want to come early and get started on the evening's fun.

For entertainment there will be color cartoon movies and the inevitable fish pond and other almost traditional school carnival attractions. As a special feature, Mrs. Roy Wilson will be there to cut out silhouettes of black paper.

Homemade candy will be on the counter.

Mrs. Howard Miller is the general chairman and Mrs. Mac Dews Jr., the co-chairman. But, scores of other members of the Parent-Teacher Assn., which is putting on the carnival, already have started working on it and won't find much respite until long after it comes to an official end at 9:30 p. m.

The purpose, of course, is to raise money for the new school. Things needed for the new school.

Ohio Coaches Of Year Named In State Ballot

Marion in Class AA, Gibsonburg in Class A Gain Football Honors

COLUMBUS (AP)—Gordon Larson of Marion is Ohio's Class AA high school football coach of the year.

And in Class A, the top mentor is Herb Redding of Gibsonburg High in Sandusky County.

The two standouts won their laurels today in The Associated Press statewide vote in which some 300 coaches, 100 sports writers and 75 officials participated.

Larson, 34-year-old graduate of Kent State, led his team to nine straight victories and second place in the "Top 10" ratings.

Redding, who helped coach the northern all-stars to a 26-13 win over the Rebels in 1955 at Mansfield, piloted Gibsonburg to a 7-1-1 record and the championship of the Sandusky Bay Conference.

Gibsonburg is the smallest school in the circuit. Redding, 32, is a graduate of Bowling Green State University.

Larson, four years after transferring from Akron South, turned the Marion team into a statewide power. His first year, after inheriting little talent, he won three, lost six. The next year it was 6-2-1, last year 7-1-1, and this time the jackpot. In ten years of coaching Larson has compiled a 50-29-8 mark, with a 25-9-2 at Marion.

Redding, in seven years at Gibsonburg, has a 41-20-2 record. He was at Lorain St. Marys two years before his current berth.

Mel Knowlton of Alliance's state champions finished next to Larson in the double-A race, with Lowell Storm of Springfield and Joe Carolo of Newark tied for third. Joe Michael of Fredericktown and John Riley of Mogadore deadlocked for second behind Redding.

In a sentiment-finding ballot, which has no bearing on the actual selections to be made by the coaches' association early in December, Larson was the favorite of the voters to coach the northern all-stars at Canton next August, while Carolo was a runaway choice to handle the Rebels.

Knowlton, 1954 coach of the year and head mentor of the Yankees in the 1955 North-South fair, again was runnerup to Larson in the all-star race, while Storm was second in the south, followed by Dave Puddington of Dayton Fairmont.

Well up in the Class AA coach of the year voting were Bob Brugge of Parma, Ron Baevich of Cincinnati Roger Bacon, Fred George of Cleveland, Cathedral Latin, Bill Barton of Elyria, Leo Baughman of Portersmouth, Joe Cochran of New Concord, and Gil Strang of Massillon. Howard Baughman of Portersmouth; Joe Cochran of New Concord, and Gil Smith of Van Wert.

In Class A the leaders included Gerald Graham of Marlinton, Carl Benhase of Berne Union, Charles Becca of Brilliant, Red Nugent of Danville, Les Grace of the Maumee Valley Day School, Forest Sharrock of Columbus, Rosary, Pat Mancuso of Leetonia and Gene Rmeener of Bridgeport.

Larson succeeded Warren Harding's Gene Slaughter as Class AA coach of the year. Redding is the first to be selected from among the smaller Class A schools.

May Not Be Easy For 'Easy Ed'

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Easy Ed Macauley might have a tough time living up to his name now that he is the new coach of the St. Louis Hawks.

He's working for fiery Ben Kerper, who has disposed of two coaches in less than a year while each had the team in first place.

Macauley, former St. Louis University All-American and a nine-year veteran of the National Basketball Assn., was named by Kerper after the owner fired Andy Phillip from the coaching job.

The 30-year-old Macauley said he hopes to become a bench coach, although he will remain in uniform until the outcoun date Dec. 15. He plans no big shakeup of the Hawks.

Finsterwald Trails In Florida Tourney

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Dow Finsterwald of Athens, Ohio, was one stroke off the pace at the end of the first round of the West Palm Beach Invitational Golf Tournament.

Finsterwald Thursday toured the West Palm Beach Country Club course in a six under, par 66.

Ohio State's Football Finale Against Michigan Is Awaited

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State bids farewell to its 1958 football team Saturday—but a host of the Bucks will be back next year.

The finale against Michigan could be a dilly, despite the fact the usually wonderful Wolverines have been fairly tame all year. The Ann Arbor outfit has a 2-5-1 record, its pair of victories by a single point each, while Ohio has a 5-1-2 mark.

Michigan's middle is vulnerable, and that's where Bob White of Ohio gets most of his Big Ten leading yardage. The Big Ten has carried 194 times for 781 yards and 11 touchdowns—and hasn't been thrown for a loss in eight games.

The Wolverine defense is ninth in the conference, having leaked for 2,380 yards and 191 points. But Bennie Oosterbaa, winding up an 11-year coaching regime, could come up with something new for the finale. And his battered kids undoubtedly will offer an all-out effort to "win this one for Bennie."

Ohio, too, has plenty of incentive. The Bucks have won only one of the last four games—last week's big 38-28 verdict over Iowa—and they would like to end it all with a flourish.

Ten of the first 33 on the Buckeye squad will be appearing for the last time, along with seven others on the 62-man squad. Hayes has a fine nucleus for 1959, since he loses only five from the first team, three from the second and two from the third.

The big losses are Quarterback Frank Kremblas, who will see little if any action Saturday; Halfbacks Dick LeBeau and Don

Mad Anthony's Are Trowned At Salt Creek

Inability to hit the baskets sent Good Hope's Mad Anthony cagers down to their third defeat in four games Thursday night when the boys at Salt Creek thumped them 46 to 22.

This was the game that was originally scheduled for Tuesday night, but was postponed to Thursday night after the Mad Anthony's had made the 40-mile trip there only to find that the Salt Creek outfit could not start its season until Thursday.

It was really Valentine's Day for Salt Creek. For the two Valentine boys tallied 32 of their team's 46 points. Gary, a great rebounder and tip-in artist, got 8 field goals and 6 free throws and Dennis, a neat sharpshooter, hit five from the outside although he was not a starter.

It definitely was not the night for the Mad Anthony's. Reisinger, Geesling and Strough, who usually can be counted on for fattening the Good Hope count, were all held scoreless. Jerry Hoppes hit three field goals, half of the 6 registered by his team.

Strange as it may seem, the Mad Anthony's did not score a single field goal in the last half. Their 9 points came on free throws.

They took 25 shots during that blank second half and missed every one of them. The field goal average for the game was a meager 13 1/2 per cent.

The Salt Creek outfit hit 27 1/2 per cent of their field shots.

Salt Creek won the preliminary, 13 to 16.

12 Colts Expected In Pimlico Test

BALTIMORE (AP)—The owners of 12 colts are counted upon to stay in Saturday for the last round of a race equivalent to stud poker, the Pimlico Futurity with a pot of about $170,000.

The players in the showdown are expected to be the owners of Intentionally, Rico Testa, Puncives, Derrick, Pilot, Nimmer, Flying Hills, Jet Fuel, McLellan, Flying Scud, That Lucky Day, and Harvest Singing.

The fastest runner for a mile and sixteenth among the 2-year-old colts will net his proprietor a first prize of $123,171 if a dozen start.

Clark; End Dick Schafrath, Center Dan Fronk, and Guard Dan James. Halfback replacements are plentiful but small, and there's plenty of brawn for the line vacancies.

The weatherman promises perfect weather for the 1:30 p.m. kickoff. A crowd of 83,000 is assured, setting a new six-game home record.

Michigan will offer three Ohioans, all seniors, in its starting lineup. They are End Gary Prahst, pass-snatching end from Berea; Bob Ptacek, quarterback and sparkplug from Cleveland, and Center Jim Dickey of Miami Springs.

In the 54-game series with Michigan the Bucks have been beaten 34 times, won 16 and tied 4. In seven years Coach Woody Hayes has a 4-3 edge over Oosterbaan.

Elgin Baylor's Pace Amazes Pro Cagers

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Compare Elgin Baylor with George Mikan?

The man doing the neat professional job of sidestepping that one is Coach Johnny Kundla of the Minneapolis Lakers, a battle-scarred vet of 11 years in the National Basketball Assn.

"They're two different kinds of players," Kundla said.

"The man amazes me," said Kundla. "To think that a rookie could lead the club in points, assists and rebounds even at this stage of the season! And he way up among the leaders in the league to boot."

"I had a lot of hopes for him when he came to use from Seattle University. But I didn't dream he'd take hold so fast."

The 6-5 All-American college star has come onto the pro scene like a volcano. In 12 games he has averaged 23.8 points a game, snagged an average of 16 rebounds and made about five assists a game.

He's been in the league for 10 games and he's already one of the 10 best players," said Coach Fuzzy Leavine of the New York Knickerbockers on the Lakers Eastern swing.

Elgin's spectacular coming-out is all the more noteworthy for this: He was a pivotman in college, seldom having to worry about corner shooting. With the Lakers he's a corner man.

Jeff Juniors Win Two Games in Row

Jeffersonville's Junior cagers today are getting ready to go to Jamestown Monday afternoon for another game after having won their last two by convincing scores.

Thursday afternoon, they whipped New Holland's Bulldog Pups, 40 to 20, and last week they beat the Atlanta Juniors, 32 to 16. Both games, in each of which the Tiger Cubs doubled the scores of their foes, were played at Jeffersonville.

In the game with the New Hollanders, the top scorers for Jeffersonville were Joe Palmer with 14 and Gary McDonald and Roger Lovett with 13 each. Eckle with 6 and Dunn with 5 points led the New Holland offense.

In the Atlanta game, Palmer got 16 points and Lovett 12 to lead the Jeffersonville scoring. Larry Morris, with 8, went best for Atlanta.

Gordon McCarty is the Jeffersonville Junior coach.

Brown Predicts No. 1 for Duncan

CLEVELAND (AP)—Coach Paul E. Brown predicts that Iowa's Randy Duncan will be the No. 1 choice in the National Football League draft Dec. 1.

Dick Gallagher, a scout for the Cleveland Browns, agrees with his boss that the No. 1 choice will be a quarterback. But Gallagher believes the choice will be Lee Grosscup, the fine Utah passer.

Brown, who will go to Philadelphia armed with 50 names supplied by Gallagher, isn't saying what he will be after in the first four rounds of the early draft. One observer says, however, Brown will have his eye on big, fast linemen and defensive backs.

IT'S SO EASY TO PLACE A WANT AD.

IN TRIBE-TIGER SWAP—The Cleveland Indians and Detroit Tigers completed a five-player trade that sent infielder Billy Martin (left) to the Tribe and pitchers Ray Narleski (center) and Don Mossi (right) to Detroit. The Indians also got pitcher Al Ciolette and gave infielder Oswaldo Alvarez to the Tigers.

Indian Chief Finally Gets 'Holler Guy'

CLEVELAND (AP)—Frank Lane, the feverish trader who has turned the Cleveland Indians' wigwag inside out in the course of one year, has had Billy Martin on his mind ever since he was named Indians' general manager.

Today he has Martin.

But he paid relief to Detroit. He gave up relief ace Ray Narleski and Don Mossi, plus Ossie Alvarez, recently acquired infielder, for Martin and Al Ciolette, a right-handed pitcher.

"The Indians have needed a leader, and I don't mean simply a 'holler guy,'" Lane remarked in explaining the deal he made Thursday with Tiger General Manager John McHale.

"What we've needed is a hustling, scrappy player who will keep the others on their toes."

"That's the sort of player Billy Martin is. It's the intangibles that make him so valuable."

Lane said Martin "was the man I wanted when I came to Cleveland a year ago. In fact, I tried to get him before I hung up my hat."

"We needed him more than anyone else, and so I thought we should pay more. He's better than anything we had at second last year."

Martin, a disappointment at shortstop last season, "is strictly a second baseman," said Lane, adding that "I told McHale that last year after he made the deal with Kansas City. But they thought he could play shortstop."

Lane hopes the vacuum in the bullpen will be filled by Dick Brodowski and Bob Tiefenauer, two top minor league relief pitchers now in the Indian camp.

"This doesn't end our rebuilding plans," Lane remarked. "We could use a center fielder. Larry Doby isn't going to last forever."

Lane said his field manager, Joe Gordon, who he heartily approved of the swap, he said Gordon now plans to play Vic Wertz at first base, Martin at second, either Woody Held or Billy Moran at shortstop and Vic Power at third base.

Bowl Bids, Championships Go on Block This Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS That college football grab-bag is just brimming over with bowl berths and conference championships this weekend.

Such delicacies as berths in the Rose, Sugar, Cotton and Orange Bowls, the Ivy, Southeastern, and Skyline Conference championships and a couple of really ancient rivalries promise to tempt the gridiron gourmets.

The program begins tonight with Iowa State visiting San Jose State and Houston travelling to Miami (Fla.) in interconference games.

If California, rated No. 19 in this week's Associated Press poll of sportswriters and broadcasters, can knock off Stanford Saturday it will win the Pacific Coast Conference crown. All it needs then is five votes from PCC members and it will meet Iowa in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day in Pasadena.

If runners-up Washington State and Oregon State win, and Cal loses, then one of that duo will play for the roses.

In New Orleans, top-ranked Louisiana State, undefeated in nine games, ends its season against Tulane. A victory would mark LSU's first perfect season in 50 years and put the ribbon on its Sugar Bowl host spot.

An LSU win would also gain it the Southeastern Conference championship. Auburn (No. 2), which meets Wake Forest, could take the title with a victory coupled with a loss by Louisiana State. Auburn, with a tie by Georgia Tech to mar its SEC record, is shooting for its second straight undefeated season, and is defending national champ.

Syracuse (No. 10) will have an invitation to the Orange Bowl to face Oklahoma if it defeats West Virginia in the finale for both teams. Oklahoma (No. 4) plays Big Eight rival Nebraska, and a victory would give the Sooners their 71st straight conference game without a loss.

Seventh-ranked Texas Christian can sew up the Southwest Conference title with a victory over Rice. It would also nail down the host spot for the Cotton Bowl.

Some of the bowl hopefuls go for their last stand too. The ninth-ranked Air Force Academy plays Skyline co-leader New Mexico and a victory would mean a berth in any of the open bowls. Clemson (No. 16), looking for a possible Orange, Cotton or Gator bid, meets Boston College. A Gator Bowl hopeful.

North Carolina (No. 17) plays Duke with its pride, as well as a possible bowl, at stake. This intra-state rivalry rocks the Carolinas each fall, and Jim Tatum's Tarheels are looking fondly at the Sugar Cotton and Gator bowls.

Twelfth-ranked Florida even with four losses, is a possible for the Gator Bowl provided it can get by Florida State, in a game that has been bitter comment from both sides on ticket arrangements and scheduling of last week's opponents.

George Izo of Notre Dame matches his passing arm against Iowa's Randy Duncan in the television game of the day, beginning at 2:30 p.m. EST over NBC-TV. This is the finale for Big Ten titlist Iowa (No. 6), while Notre Dame (No. 15) plays next week.

The Big Ten winds up its season with fifth-ranked Wisconsin meeting Minnesota; Purdue (No. 8) playing Indiana for the Old Oaken Bucket; Ohio State (No. 11) entertaining Michigan, whose Bennie Oosterbaan bids farewell; and 20th ranked Northwestern plays Illinois.

For tradition you can't beat the 75th meeting of Yale and Harvard at Cambridge, Mass., nor the 94th meeting of Lehigh and Lafayette, in Easton, Pa.

The Ivy League crown is on the line at Princeton where the Tigers meet Dartmouth in a replay of the 1957 game won by Princeton.

Brigham Young can win the Skyline title if it defeats Wyoming since co-leader New Mexico finished its conference schedule.

2 Teams Ask To Join SCOL

Two newly consolidated schools have asked to join the six-team South Central Ohio Athletic League.

Possibilities of the integration of Beaver Creek, and Paint Valley were discussed at the regular fall meeting of the league in Circleville Wednesday night.

Beaver Creek, a new Class AA school located near Xenia in Greene County, will probably get first consideration because it is already participating in football, lacrosse and basketball.

Paint Valley, Ross County, is a consolidation of Twin and Bainbridge High Schools.

The schools could be accepted into the league before next September and included on the sports schedules, but officials decided that they would not be considered in the standings.

A special committee of the league will investigate all three schools.

League officials also discussed the possibility of organizing a wrestling league but nothing definite was decided. Circleville and Franklin Heights will have wrestling teams this year and others are expected to follow suit.

Calhoun Slated To Joust 'Tiger'

NEW YORK (AP)—One thing about Pory Calhoun, the muscular music lover, He always is eligible for the "Fighter of the Month." Pory will be making his 10th appearance of the year tonight when he takes on old reliable Ralph "Tiger" Jones at Madison Square Garden.

Except for the fact that he has been making money, this has not been one of Calhoun's better years. He was stopped for the first time, Jan. 20 by Spider Webb in San Francisco. He also lost decisions to Joey Giardello and Gene (Ace) Armstrong. Now he is No. 10 middle in the Ring rankings and No. 6 by the National Boxing Assn. in the light heavy class.

Ohio Coaches Of Year Named In State Ballot

Marion in Class AA,
Gibsonburg in Class A Gain Football Honors

COLUMBUS (AP)—Gordon Larson of Marion is Ohio's Class AA high school football coach of the year.

And in Class A, the top mentor is Herb Redding of Gibsonburg High in Sandusky County.

The two standouts won their laurels today in The Associated Press statewide vote in which some 300 coaches, 100 sports writers and 75 officials participated.

Larson, 34-year-old graduate of Kent State, led his team to nine straight victories and second place in the "Top 10" ratings.

Redding, who helped coach the northern all-stars to a 26-13 win over the Rebels in 1955 at Mansfield, piloted Gibsonburg to a 7-1-1 record and the championship of the Sandusky Bay Conference. Gibsonburg is the smallest school in the circuit. Redding, 32, is a graduate of Bowling Green State University.

Larson, four years after transferring from Akron South, turned the Marion team into a statewide power. His first year, after inheriting little talent, he won three, lost six. The next year it was 6-2-1, last year 7-1-1, and this time the jackpot. In ten years of coaching Larson has compiled a 50-29-8 mark, with a 25-9-2 at Marion.

Redding, in seven years at Gibsonburg, has a 41-20-2 record. He was at Lorain St. Marys two years before his current berth.

Mel Knowlton of Alliance's state champions finished next to Larson in the double-A race, with Lowell Storm of Springfield and Joe Carolo of Newark tied for third. Joe Michael of Fredericktown and John Riley of Mogadore deadlocked for second behind Redding.

In a sentiment-finding ballot, which has no bearing on the actual selections to be made by the coaches' association early in December, Larson was the favorite of the voters to coach the northern all-stars at Canton next August, while Carolo was a runaway choice to handle the Rebels.

Knowlton, 1954 coach of the year and head mentor of the Yankees in the 1955 North-South fray, again was runnerup to Larson in the all-star race, while Storm was second in the south, followed by Dave Puddington of Dayton Fairmont.

Well up in the Class AA coach of the year voting were Bob Brugge of Parma, Bron Bacevich of Cincinnati Roger Bacon, Fred George of Cleveland, Cathedral Latin, Bill Barton of Elyria, Leo Baughman of Portsmouth, and Gil Strang of Massillon. Howard Baughman of Portsmouth, and Joe Cochran of New Concord, and Gil Smith of Van Wert.

In Class A the leaders included Gerald Graham of Marlinton, Carl Benhase of Berne Union, Charles Becca of Brilliant, Red Nugent of Danville, Les Grace of the Maumee Valley Day School, Forest Sharrock of Columbus Rosary, Pat Mancuso of Leontonia and Gene Rmeenar of Bridgeport. Larson succeeds Warren Harding's Gene Slaughter as Class AA coach of the year. Redding is the first to be selected from among the smaller Class A schools.

May Not Be Easy For 'Easy Ed'

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Easy Ed Macauley might have a tough time living up to his name now that he is the new coach of the St. Louis Hawks.

He's working for fiery Ben Kerney, who has disposed of two coaches in less than a year while each had the team in first place. Macauley, former St. Louis University All-American and a nine-year veteran of the National Basketball Assn., was named by Kerney after the owner fired Andy Phillip from the coaching job.

The 30-year-old Macauley said he hopes to become a bench coach, although he will remain in uniform until the outdownt date Dec. 15. He plans no big shakeup of the Hawks.

Ohio State's Football Finale Against Michigan Is Awaited

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State bids farewell to its 1958 football team Saturday—but a host of the Bucks will be back next year. The finale against Michigan could be a dilly, despite the fact the usually wonderful Wolverines have been fairly tame all year. The Ann Arbor outfit has a 2-5-1 record, its pair of victories by a single point each, while Ohio has a 5-1-2 mark.

Michigan's middle is vulnerable, and that's where Bob White, Ohio gets most of his Big Ten leading yardage. The big fellow has carried 194 times for 781 yards and 11 touchdowns — and hasn't been thrown for a loss in eight games.

The Wolverine defense is ninth in the conference, having leaked for 2,380 yards and 191 points. But Bennie Oosterbaan, winding up an 11-year coaching regime, could come up with something new for the finale. And his battered kids undoubtedly will offer an all-out effort to "win this one for Bennie."

Ohio, too, has plenty of incentive. The Bucks have won only one of the last four games—last week's big 38-28 verdict over Iowa—and they would like to end it all with a flourish.

Ten of the first 33 on the Buckeye squad will be appearing for the last time, along with seven others on the 62-man squad. Hayes has a fine nucleus for 1959, since he loses only five from the first team, three from the second and two from the third.

The big losses are Quarterback Frank Kremling, who will see little if any action Saturday; Halfbacks Dick LeBeau and Don

Clark; End Dick Schafrath, Center Dan Fronk, and Guard Dan James. Halfback replacements are plentiful but small, and there's plenty of brawn for the line vacancies. The weatherman promises perfect weather for the 1:30 p.m. kickoff. A crowd of 83,000 is assured, setting a new six-game home record.

Michigan will offer three Ohioans, all seniors, in its starting lineup. They are End Gary Frahsel, pass-snatching end from Berea; Bob Ptacek, quarterback and sparkplug from Cleveland, and Center Jim Dickey of Miami Springs.

In the 54-game series with Michigan the Bucks have been beaten 34 times, won 16 and tied 4. In seven years Coach Woody Hayes has a 4-3 edge over Oosterbaan.

Elgin Baylor's Pace Amazes Pro Cagers

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Compare Elgin Baylor with George Mikan?

The man doing the neat professional job of sidestepping that one is Coach Johnny Kundla of the Minneapolis Lakers, a battle-scarred vet of 11 years in the National Basketball Assn.

"They're two different kinds of players," Kundla said.

"The man amazes me," said Kundla. "To think that a rookie could lead the club in points, assists and rebounds even at this stage of the season! And he way up among the leaders in the league to boot."

"I had a lot of hopes for him when he came to use from Seattle University. But I didn't dream he'd take hold so fast."

The 6-5 All-American college star has come onto the pro scene like a volcano. In 12 games he has averaged 23.8 points a game, snagged an average of 16 rebounds and made about five assists a game.

He's been in the league for 10 games and he's already one of the 10 best players," said Coach Fuzzy Levane of the New York Knickerbockers on the Lakers Eastern swing.

Elgin's spectacular coming-out is all the more noteworthy for this: He was a pivotman in college, seldom having to worry about corner shooting. With the Lakers he's a corner man.

Jeff Juniors Win Two Games in Row

Jeffersonville's Junior cagers to day are getting ready to go to Jamestown Monday afternoon for another game after having won their last two by convincing scores.

Thursday afternoon, they whipped New Holland's Bulldog Pups, 40 to 20, and last week they beat the Atlanta Juniors, 32 to 16. Both games, in each of which the Tiger Cubs doubled the scores of their foes, were played at Jeffersonville.

In the game with the New Hollanders, the top scorers for Jeffersonville were Joe Palmer with 14 and Gary McDonald and Roger Lovett with 13 each. Eckle with 6 and Dunn with 5 points led the New Holland offense.

In the Atlanta game, Palmer got 16 points and Lovett 12 to lead the Jeffersonville scoring. Larry Morris, with 8, went best for Atlanta.

Gordon McCarty is the Jeffersonville Junior coach.

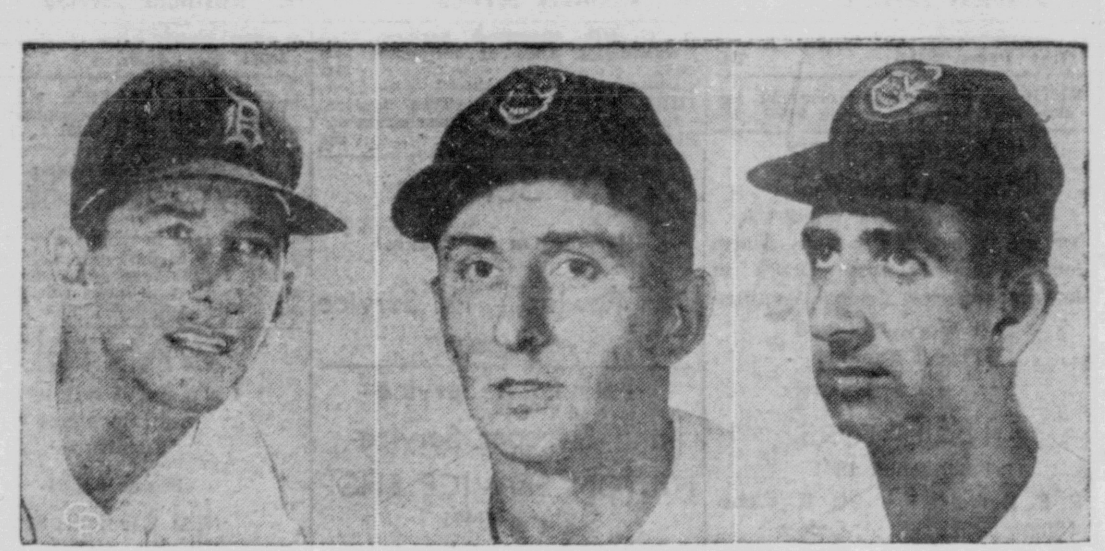

Brown Predicts No. 1 for Duncan

CLEVELAND (AP)—Coach Paul E. Brown predicts that Iowa's Randy Duncan will be the No. 1 choice in the National Football League draft Dec. 1.

Dick Gallagher, a scout for the Cleveland Browns, agrees with his boss that the No. 1 choice will be a quarterback. But Gallagher believes the choice will be Lee Grosscup, the fine Utah passer.

Brown, who will go to Philadelphia armed with 50 names supplied by Gallagher, isn't saying what he will be after the first four rounds of the early draft. One observer says, however, Brown will have his eye on big, fast linemen and defensive backs.

IT'S SO EASY TO PLACE A WANT AD.

IN TRIBE-TIGER SWAP—The Cleveland Indians and Detroit Tigers completed a five-player trade that sent infielder Billy Martin (left) to the Tribe and pitchers Ray Narleski (center) and Don Mossi (right) to Detroit. The Indians also got pitcher Al Cicotte and gave infielder Oswaldo Alvarez to the Tigers.

Indian Chief Finally Gets 'Holler Guy'

CLEVELAND (AP)—Frank Lane, the feverish trader who has turned the Cleveland Indians' wigwam inside out in the course of one year, has had Billy Martin on his mind ever since he was named Indians' general manager.

Today he has Martin. But he paid dearly to Detroit. He gave up relief ace Ray Narleski and Don Mossi, plus Ossie Alvarez, recently acquired infielder, for Martin and Al Cicotte, a right-handed pitcher.

"The Indians have needed a leader, and I don't mean simply a 'holler guy,'" Lane remarked in explaining the deal he made Thursday with Tiger General Manager John McHale.

"What we've needed is a hustling, scrappy player who will keep the others on their toes."

"That's the sort of player Billy Martin is. It's the intangibles that make him so valuable."

Lane said Martin "was the man I wanted when I came to Cleveland a year ago. In fact, I tried to get him before I hung up my hat."

"We needed him more than anyone else, and so I thought we should pay more. He's better than anything we had at second last year."

Martin, a disappointment at shortstop last season, "is strictly a second baseman," said Lane, adding that "I told McHale that last year after he made the deal with Kansas City. But they thought he could play shortstop."

Lane hopes the vacuum in the bullpen will be filled by Dick Brodowski and Bob Tiefenauer, two top minor league relief pitchers now in the Indian camp.

"This doesn't end our rebuilding plans," Lane remarked. "We could use a center fielder. Larry Doby isn't going to last forever."

Lane said his field manager, Joe Gordon, who heartily approved of the swap, he said Gordon now plans to play Vic Wertz at first base, Martin at second, either Woody Held or Billy Moran at shortstop and Vic Power at third base.

A special committee of the league will investigate all three schools.

League officials also discussed the possibility of organizing a wrestling league but nothing definite was decided. Circleville and Franklin Heights will have wrestling teams this year and others are expected to follow suit.

Aussies Lead International Golf Contest

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Americans Ben Hogan and Sam Snead sought to overtake the Australian entry in the team race for the Canada Golf Cup today after a hectic first round that produced several surprises and an individual leader from Colombia.

The United States tandem went into today's second round with a total of 143 tied with Ireland one stroke behind Australia.

Miguel Sala, a little known Colombian, playing in his first international match, turned in a three-under-par 69 to lead the world's greatest golfers in the individual competition. Only six other players among the 63 from 32 countries broke par.

Two iron shot artists from Australia, Frank Phillips and Ken Nagle, fired the best combined score, a two-under-par 142. Phillips was one of four players to shoot 70. His partner Nagle had a 72.

Hogan, the four-time United States champion, had to sink a six-foot birdie putt on the final green to put the American team in a second place tie with Ireland. Hogan finished with 72 while his partner Snead registered a 71.

Behind the top three teams came Argentina and Great Britain tied at 144, Scotland 145, Brazil 146, Spain 148, the Philippines 148 and Colombia 149.

Others who broke par were Harry Bradshaw of Ireland, Florin van Donck of Belgium and Leopoldo Ruiz of Argentina with 70s and Bernard Hunt of Great Britain with a 71.

Defending champion Japan had a shaky 151 for 13th place and favored South Africa 154 for 17th place.

Torakichi (Pete) Nakamura, the defending titleholder, started poorly with a 4-over-par 40, then steadied for a 76. His partner Koichi Ono had 75. Highly touted Gary Player of South Africa also turned in a 75.

Ohio College Cagers Lose in Indiana Test

RICHMOND, Ind. (AP)—Both Ohio teams lost their first-round matches in the City of Richmond Invitational Basketball Tournament Thursday night. Rio Grande lost to Earlham 63-59 while Franklin beat Wilmington College 79-63.

Brown Looks At Congress

Unions To Exert New Power, Ohioan Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—For 30 years now, Rep. Clarence J. Brown (R-Ohio) has been observing congressional leadership from his vantage point as a member of the House.

In that time, his party has held that leadership only four years. But Brown himself never has failed to be re-elected from his southwestern Ohio District.

What does Brown, GOP National Committeeman and long associated with the Taft branch of his party, think the new, heavily Democratic Congress will be like?

"Organized labor," he says, "will be very strong in the coming Congress. It may be interesting to note that some 30 unions now have national headquarters in Washington. . . ."

Democratic-sponsored legislation, he believes, will include higher price supports for farm crops, tax cuts in low income brackets, federal aid for schools and "a modified socialized medicine program."

Brown will be far more than just an observer of all this legislation, too. He has one of the most important Republican votes in Congress.

The reason for this lies in his membership on the House Rules Committee, a group that must pass on nearly all major legislation before the house can even consider it.

This means that a majority on the committee—there are eight Democrats and four Republicans—can often stall a piece of legislation indefinitely and prevent the House from voting on it.

Red Expert Hints Soviet Moonshoot To Be Tried Soon

MOSCOW (AP)—A Soviet moon-mapping expert, N. P. Barabash, said today in Izvestia that "it must be assumed the time is not far off when the world learns about the first moon flight."

His statement was interpreted here as a broad hint that Russia may shoot for the moon soon. He wrote:

"It is necessary now to prepare a detailed atlas of the moon's surface for the first space travellers, including the minutest details of height of mountains, depth of abysses, and degree of inclination of crater walls, permitting good orientation for long trips on the surface of the moon without fear of getting lost among the enormous number of often very similar mountains."

Courts

SUES FOR $8,100

Candis McCoy, Bloomington, has brought suit in Common Pleas Court, asking $8,100 judgment from Mary E. Ward, administrator of the estate of Harley Ward. The petition states that the plaintiff, on Sept. 3, 1958, presented a claim for that amount on the basis of loans to the deceased. She says that her claim was rejected in full on Sept. 20.

DIVORCES GRANTED

Three new divorce decrees have been entered in Common Pleas Court.

Jo Ann Sprague, 422 N. Fayette St., has been granted dissolution of her marriage to George J. Sprague, 826 S. Hinde St., on grounds of neglect and cruelty. A previous property settlement agreement was approved by the court. There are no children.

Pauline D. Hilton, 524 Campbell St., has won a divorce from Earl J. Hilton, also on grounds of neglect and cruelty. The court approved a property settlement agreement. There are no children.

Mary Kathryn Tumbleson, Bloomington, has been granted a divorce from William Elbert Tumbleson who is barred from any interest in household goods and chattels. Custody of two minor children were given to the plaintiff, with the defendant to pay $10 per week for their support plus a flat payment of $125 to the plaintiff. Mrs. Tumbleson had charged neglect and cruelty.

CASE DISMISSED

The petition of the plaintiffs and the answer of the defendant have been dismissed at the request of both parties in the court action brought by Audree B. Gorton and Beverly Gorton Harper against Richard Earl Hodson. The action was filed to terminate a farm contract.

U.S. Economic Recovery Is Shy of Prediction

WASHINGTON (AP)—Government economists report that the rate of the nation's economic recovery fell short of expectations during the July-September quarter.

However, they predict the economy will soar to a new high next year.

The Commerce Department said Thursday the gross national product increased to an annual rate of 439 billion dollars during the third quarter—a billion dollars less than the government estimated a month ago.

Cite Farm Income Drop, 'Anti-Tax Attitude'

Symposiarch Panel Views Failure of Hospital Levy

Defeat of the levy for Memorial Hospital at the Nov. 4 election was attributed largely to a decline in farm income and a general anti-tax attitude by a panel of four non-experts at Thursday night's Symposium meeting at the Country Club.

Dr. Hugh W. Payton called on Ed Vollette, Howard S. Harper, Charles A. Fabb and Robert C. Haigler, without previous notice, to serve on the panel. As the moderator, he put the questions to the group.

Dr. Payton, a native of Oklahoma and graduate of the University of Oklahoma Medical College, was introduced by William M. Jurnk. Before forming the panel, Dr. Payton described some of the functions of the hospital here and discussed some of the services that can be included as it progresses.

He pointed out some of the needs, most of which would have been taken care of had the levy been approved. He emphasized that equipment not only will wear out, but also that new equipment is becoming available through constant development by science.

Dr. Payton prefaced the formation of the panel with the statement that "we (the hospital staff) want to hear the criticism—constructive criticism—so that, if possible, any weaknesses may be corrected."

Very little criticism was made; on the contrary, the panel's comments were highly commendatory.

THE KEY QUESTION put to the panelists was: "Why was the levy defeated?" The consensus of the panelists was that a dip in farm prices and the anti-tax attitude were the principal factors.

The panelists agreed that the service at the hospital was of the best; there was no criticism from any of them.

There also was general agreement that people "take advantage" of the emergency service by going to the hospital with ailments that are not real emergencies. Because of this, the panelists felt, real emergencies sometimes may not get attention as soon as they should. However, it was emphasized that these cases are few and far between, but take on importance through exaggeration.

The panel was in general agreement that the hospital here should be expanded to keep pace with progress and community growth. But there was some disagreement as to how much it should be expanded. In the last analysis, the panelists said they felt that the expansion should be kept within limits of the community's ability to support it and then be in proportion to the growth of the community.

WHILE THERE was no great difference of opinion among the panelists on the question of the hospital accepting patients from outside the county, it was pointed out that Fayette Countians frequently are patients in hospitals in other cities without discrimination.

It was suggested, too, that acceptance of out-of-county patients makes it possible to provide more and better service. It was suggested that a larger hospital will attract top surgeons and specialists.

Dr. Payton noted that Memorial Hospital is not large enough to give interns the required training or to maintain a resident physician. In view of this, he said, the physicians here take turns "on call" for emergencies.

The business session, conducted by John S. Bath, president, which preceded the program was brief. Bath announced that the chapter's annual Christmas dinner-dance will be held at the Country Club Dec. 27. On the committee are Dr. Byers Shaw, Harford Hankins, Elmer Reed, Willard H. Perrill, Harper and Vollette.

Hosts for the Thursday meeting were Dr. Samuel Sauer, Troy T. Junk and Colin C. Campbell.

Betty J. Jonson, 28, of 228 Hickory St., pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and costs in Municipal Court Friday for disorderly conduct.

The charge was brought by Sue Hines, address unreported.

Cherry Hill PTA Plans for Operetta

Members of the Cherry Hill Parent-Teacher Assn. were given a first hand description of the educational facilities and programs being carried on at a number of Air Force bases by Superintendent W. A. Smith of the Washington C. H. schools at their November meeting.

Supt. Smith was one of 39 educators from all parts of the country selected by the Air Force to make a tour and study of bases and the new Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs.

He was introduced by Don E. Wood.

The meeting was opened with a poem, "A Prayer for the Giver," after which the Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison.

Mrs. Charles Sheridan, president, conducted the business meeting at which Mrs. Glen Tatman gave the secretary's report and Mrs. Robert Goldsberry the treasurer's report. The reports showed a present total membership of 258.

The sixth grade won the attendance banner for the meeting.

The project committee reported that a new curtain has been ordered for the stage and that it "should be here" in time for the Christmas operetta, which will be given by the pupils on Dec. 11.

A string ensemble composed of Mrs. Maurice Hopkins, Mrs. John P. Case, Mrs. Charles Sheridan, Mrs. John Rhoads and Mrs. Robert Parrett played three numbers, including the old favorite, "Jeannie with the Light Brown Hair."

The next meeting will be held on Feb. 3 at the school.

Brown Looks At Congress

Unions To Exert New Power, Ohioan Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — For 34 years now, Rep. Clarence J. Brown (R-Ohio) has been observing congressional leadership from his vantage point as a member of the House.

In that time, his party has held that leadership only four years. But Brown himself never has failed to be re-elected from his southwestern Ohio District.

What does Brown, GOP National Committeeman and long associated with the Taft branch of his party, think the new, heavily Democratic Congress will be like?

"Organized labor," he says, "will be very strong in the coming Congress. It may be interesting to note that some 50 unions now have national headquarters in Washington."

Democratic-sponsored legislation, he believes, will include higher price supports for farm crops, tax cuts in low income brackets, federal aid for schools and "a modified socialized medicine program."

Brown will be far more than just an observer of all this legislation, too. He has one of the most important Republican votes in Congress.

The reason for this lies in his membership on the House Rules Committee, a group that must pass on nearly all major legislation before the house can even consider it.

This means that a majority on the committee — there are eight Democrats and four Republicans — can often stall a piece of legislation indefinitely and prevent the House from voting on it.

Red Expert Hints Soviet Moonshoot To Be Tried Soon

MOSCOW (AP)—A Soviet moon-mapping expert, N. P. Barabash, said today in Izvestia that "it must be assumed the time is not far off when the world learns about the first moon flight."

His statement was interpreted here as a broad hint that Russia may shoot for the moon soon. He wrote:

"It is necessary now to prepare a detailed atlas of the moon's surface for the first space travelers, including the minutest details of height of mountains, depth of abysses, and degree of inclination of crater walls, permitting good orientation for long trips on the surface of the moon without fear of getting lost among the enormous number of often very similar mountains."

Courts

SUES FOR $8,100

Candis McCoy, Bloomington, has brought suit in Common Pleas Court, asking $8,100 judgment from Mary E. Ward, administrator of the estate of Harley Ward. The petition states that the plaintiff, on Sept. 3, 1958, presented a claim for that amount on the basis of loans to the deceased. She says that her claim was rejected in full on Sept. 20.

DIVORCES GRANTED

Three new divorce decrees have been entered in Common Pleas Court.

Jo Ann Sprague, 422 N. Fayette St., has been granted dissolution of her marriage to George J. Sprague, 826 S. Hinde St., on grounds of neglect and cruelty. A previous property settlement agreement was approved by the court. There are no children.

Pauline D. Hilton, 524 Campbell St., has won a divorce from Earl J. Hilton, also on grounds of neglect and cruelty. The court approved a property settlement agreement. There are no children.

Mary Kathryn Tumbleson, Bloomington, has been granted a divorce from William Elbert Tumbleson who is barred from any interest in household goods and chattels. Custody of two minor children were given to the plaintiff, with the defendant to pay $10 per week for their support plus a flat payment of $125 to the plaintiff. Mrs. Tumbleson had charged neglect and cruelty.

CASE DISMISSED

The petition of the plaintiffs and the answer of the defendant have been dismissed at the request of both parties in the court action brought by Audrey B. Gilton and Beverly Gilton Harper against Richard Earl Hodson. The action was filed to terminate a farm contract.

Cite Farm Income Drop, 'Anti-Tax Attitude'

Symposiarch Panel Views Failure of Hospital Levy

Defeat of the levy for Memorial Hospital at the Nov. 4 election was attributed largely to a decline in farm income and a general anti-tax attitude by a panel of four non-experts at Thursday night's Symposium meeting at the Country Club.

Dr. Jugh W. Payton called on Ed Vollette, Howard S. Harper, Charles A. Fabb and Robert C. Haigler, without previous notice, to serve on the panel. As the moderator, he put the questions to the group.

Dr. Payton, a native of Oklahoma and graduate of the University of Oklahoma Medical College, was introduced by William M. Jurnk. Before forming the panel, Dr. Payton described some of the functions of the hospital here and discussed some of the services that can be included as it progresses.

He pointed out some of the needs, most of which would have been taken care of had the levy been approved. He emphasized that equipment not only will wear out, but also that new equipment is becoming available through constant development by science.

Dr. Payton prefaced the formation of the panel with the statement that "we (the hospital staff) want to hear the criticism—constructive criticism—so that, if possible, any weaknesses may be corrected."

Very little criticism was made; on the contrary, the panel's comments were highly commendatory.

THE KEY QUESTION put to the panelists was: "Why was the levy defeated?" The consensus of the panelists was that a dip in farm prices and the anti-tax attitude were the principal factors.

The panelists agreed that the service at the hospital was of the best; there was no criticism from any of them.

The panel was in general agreement that the hospital here should be expanded to keep pace with progress and community growth. But there was some disagreement as to how much it should be expanded. In the last analysis, the panelists said they felt that the expansion should be kept within limits of the community's ability to support it and then be in proportion to the growth of the community.
